DISARMAMENT ASSEMBLY TO MEET MONDAY

Arthur Henderson Points Out Danger of Further Postponement

GERMANS SAID TO DESIRE AN ACCORD

GENEVA, Oct. 9 (AP).—The full assembly of the World Disarmament Conference will be resumed next Monday as planned, the steering committee of the parley decided today, buoyed up by a statement of the German delegate that his country desires an accord.

Before the vote was taken, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, president of the assemblage, warned that any postponement would lend weight to reports that the nations had no intention to bring forth a genuine pact. Such a postponement, he continued, would result in suspicion.

IN CONVERSATION

Following the decision, the committee adjourned until Saturday to permit conversations among the delegates in the meantime. Almost at once Dr. Rudolf Nadolny, the chief Reich delegate, and Joseph Paul-Boncour, French Foreign Minister, got their heads together.

The cautious determination reflected in the steering committee's meeting was tempered with a full recognition of the fact that a chasm still divides the positions taken by Germany and by the other European nations.

PREVIOUS POSTPONEMENT

France, Great Britain, the United States, and, to a great extent, Italy, all have previously pronounced themselves against a rearmament of Germany. The Reich, on the other hand, insists on the right to possess all the defensive armaments to be allowed the others.

A German spokesman said this stand means his country wants pursuit planes, tanks and artillery up to 155 millimetres.

"Germany," the spokesman said, "will not ask any heavier armaments at any time provided the other powers pledge themselves by a treaty eventually to destroy them, whether it be one year or eight years from now."

The question of submarines, the German delegate revealed, may be put off until there is a revision in the present naval treaty.

For her new conscript army, Germany wants to be freed of the fetters forced by the Treaty of Versailles, it was brought out, and to have "standard equipment" like her neighbors.

THE RIGHT TO FORTIFY

He was asked specifically if Germany claims the right to build eastern frontier fortresses. The reply was:

SIKH FEUD IS BREWING HERE

Third Assault Case Alarms Police—Khurma Placed Under Arrest

An East Indian feud of a serious character is brewing among the Sikhs here, and unless the vendetta can be brought to a peaceful end by intervention of the law, it may end seriously. This was the view held by police yesterday, following a third assault case which led to the arrest of Khurma, on a charge of causing bodily harm to Jowalla Singh.

The attack occurred early Sunday morning, and is the third in as many months, the first happening early last July, when Ditto was attacked by several countrymen and nearly hacked to death with an axe. The second occurred several days ago when Parpatee, wife of Ditto, and a laborer on Ditto's farm, were fired at four times while they were in their beds in Ditto's house near the old Lansdowne airport.

ON MAPLE STREET

This latest assault, according to the police, occurred on Maple Street. First intimation of trouble was received when Jowalla Singh walked into the city police station, bleeding from the mouth and holding a tooth in the palm of his right hand. Another tooth was hanging from his mouth, and police pulled it out.

Upturn Is Cause For Thanksgiving Declares Premier

R. B. Bennett Expresses Gratitude That Canada and Most of World Nations Are Experiencing Perceptible Swing Toward Normal Conditions—Visiting Winnipeg on Tour

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9 (CP).—Gratitude that not only in Canada but in most of the nations of the world there were indications of a slow but perceptible swing toward normal conditions, was the Thanksgiving thought given by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett at two public meetings here today.

"I am thankful that in Canada we have reason to believe that we are on the road to recovery," said Mr. Bennett, "but I am even more thankful that the same may be said of other countries whose prosperity is so bound up with ours."

AT THREE MEETINGS

Arriving here this morning from Ottawa Mr. Bennett addressed a mass meeting arranged by the Students' Union of the University of Manitoba, in Winnipeg's civic auditorium. Later he addressed a luncheon of the Winnipeg Conservative Women's Association.

Tonight Mr. Bennett was the guest of the Conservative Association of Manitoba at a private dinner. Members of the party from all over the province had gathered in Winnipeg to meet their leader on the occasion of his first Western visit in nearly a year. Tomorrow night the main address of his Winnipeg visit will be delivered before the Young Men's Board of Trade.

CAUSE FOR PRIDE

Mr. Bennett declared the record of the Federal administration since 1930 would compare favorably with that of any other government which had weathered the depression years and urged his listeners to take pride in the fact that such a large country with only slightly more than 10,000,000 people had taken and maintained such an enviable place among the nations of the world.

"We have had failures and disappointments," the Prime Minister said, "but we have also had such successes as no other country of our size has achieved in all time."

To the students and their guests, numbering several thousands, Mr. Bennett brought a message of hope and cheer. "You will have oppor-

CAR CRASH HURTS FOUR

Msgr. M. W. MacKinnon, of Vancouver, Critically Injured Near Bellingham

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Oct. 9 (AP).—Monsignor M. W. MacKinnon, of Vancouver, B.C., was critically injured, and three other persons were seriously hurt this afternoon in an automobile collision on the Pacific Highway at Allen, a few miles south of here.

CRITICALLY HURT

Monsignor MacKinnon, rushed to a hospital here, suffered a broken back; fractured collar bone, and possible fractured skull, attending physicians reported. He also incurred lacerations about the face and painful body bruises.

The others injured were Dr. Bruce MacEwen, of New Westminster, B.C., his wife and small son, Paul, who were returning home after a visit to the United States.

Mrs. MacEwen suffered a fractured pelvis, her husband severe injuries to his head and hands, while their son was nearly scalped.

FOR INSTALLATION

Monsignor MacKinnon, with four priests, was on his way to Seattle to attend installation ceremonies for the Most Rev. Gerald M. Shaughnessy, newly - consecrated Bishop of Seattle.

The car in which he and his companions were riding was following another British Columbia machine when Dr. MacEwen's automobile neared from the South. The driver of the first car, whose name was not learned, swung back into line, but suddenly veered to the right and headed for the ditch.

SENT INTO DITCH

The driver jerked the wheel and the car then shot to the left, across the road, striking the MacEwen machine broadside and sending it into the ditch.

Monsignor MacKinnon was the only person in his car injured, it was said.

Dominion Revenues Show Substantial Increases

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP).—Substantial increases in Dominion revenues for the first week of October, as compared with the corresponding period in 1932, are reported to the Department of Finance. The total increase in favor of the present year, when the two periods are compared, amounts to $2,370,071.

In the opinion of departmental officials, the increase is based on increased business activity and a higher level of prices which have advanced from the low point in February.

Analysis of the figures shows that the most material increase is in excise tax collections. These totaled $7,063,114 from October 2 to 7, inclusive, as compared with $4,849,639 in the corresponding period a year ago, or an increase of $2,213,475.

Customs duties collected during the week reported on show an increase of $34,309 over the figures of the corresponding week a year ago.

Brilliant Meteor Showers Seen by Many in Germany

BERLIN, Oct. 9 (AP).—Spectacular meteor showers, equal to, if not surpassing, the brilliance and magnitude of those seen in 1833 and 1866, were witnessed by thousands shortly after 8 o'clock tonight. German observatories counted 200 showers in fifteen minutes and described the chief centre of radiation as the constellations Cygnus and Lyra.

HOLIDAY IS ENJOYABLE

Thousands Seek Outdoors—Midnight Show Complete Sell-Out

Fishing, golfing, hunting, soccer, tennis, excursions, motoring, a midnight show, and even an election meeting were well patronized during the Thanksgiving holiday week-end.

With ideal weather prevailing, Victorians sought the great outdoors. All day Sunday and yesterday, Cowichan Bay and Brentwood were dotted with boats. At Cowichan Bay there were more boats, probably, than anywhere else. Palatial yachts and Indian dugouts, rowboats and launches were to be seen everywhere as fishing enthusiasts sought a week-end catch.

SHOW IS SELL-OUT

Every golf course in the Greater Victoria area was well patronized, while a midnight show, starting one minute after midnight, Sunday, was a sell-out. Thirteen hundred persons attended and more than a thousand were turned away. It took five policemen to handle the early morning traffic. There were two lines of patrons from the theatre up Yates Street to Quadra, and also along Blanshard Street to View Street.

After the show, many of the younger men went home, donned hiking clothes and went hunting. Yesterday, nearly 2,000 persons

UNIONIST WILL CONTEST COMOX

Percy Rushton Announces Candidature Following Conference

Percy Rushton, of Parksville, in the Comox provincial riding, announced here yesterday that he would contest the coming election as a Unionist candidate in support of Premier Tolmie.

Mr. Rushton, who is the proprietor of the Rushton Garage at Parksville, conferred with Premier Tolmie at the Legislative Buildings yesterday afternoon and made announcement of his candidature immediately after.

He has been a resident in the Comox district for the past twenty-five years and he contested the seat for the Conservatives in the 1928 election, but was defeated by Arnold Hanna, who is again in the field under the Liberal standard.

At present there are three candidates in the race at Comox, Mr. Rushton, Mr. Hanna and Rev. H. T. Allen, C.C.F. candidate.

Holders of Victory Bonds Will Receive Special Concession

Cash Allowance Offered for Converting to New Refunding Issue—Details of $225,000,000 Loan Are Announced at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP).—Details of the Dominion of Canada 1933 Refunding Loan were announced tonight by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, as follows: Total amount of the loan is $225,000,000. This total will not be exceeded. The books will be open for a limited period only, and all cash subscriptions will be subject to allotment.

Chief purposes of the loan are to refund $170,000,000 Victory bonds, due November 1, 1933, and $40,000,000 short-term obligations.

IN THREE MATURITIES

The new refunding loan bonds are dated October 15, 1933, and are issued in three maturities with yields as follows: Two years, 3½ per cent bonds at 99½, yielding 3¾ per cent; six-year 4 per cent bonds at 99, yielding 4.19 per cent; twelve-year 4 per cent bonds at 96½, yielding 4.38 per cent. The twelve-year bonds are issued in denominations as low as $100.

The new bonds are obtainable in exchange for maturing Victory bonds or by cash subscription.

Victory bondholders who convert receive a cash allowance representing the difference between the full face value of their maturing bonds and the price of the new bonds, subject to accrued interest adjustment after October 16.

CASH ALLOWANCE

Extra cash allowance of $2.50 per $1,000 bond will be paid to Victory bondholders converting promptly into the new twelve-year issue. This concession will lapse in any case after October 16, or earlier if the subscription books are closed before that date.

An accrued interest advantage will also be obtained by those who convert immediately into any of the three maturities. No accrued interest will be charged to those who convert on or before October 16. After that date, interest will be charged, accruing from October 15.

ADDITIONAL BONUS

Victory bondholders are allowed to detach and retain their coupons due November 1, and thus receive a bonus of half a month's interest, as the new bonds bear interest from October 15.

Banks have agreed to advance to cash subscribers up to 75 per cent of their subscriptions for six months at 4½ per cent interest.

The books of the loan, both for conversion and cash subscriptions may be closed at any time at the discretion of the Minister of Finance.

HEAD INJURIES END IN DEATH

M. Payne, of Vancouver, Dies in Hospital Here Following Accident

Edward Montigue Payne, of Vancouver, who suffered a fractured skull in an accident at Ogden Point last week, died in the St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday.

An inquest will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in Sands Funeral Chapel, by Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart.

Mr. Payne was an engineer on a C.N.R. car barge. He was found lying unconscious on the slip, which leads from the car barge dock to the lumber assembly plant. Apparently he had fallen off one of the cars as it was being unloaded.

The deceased was born in England, and had resided in the province for the past twenty years. He was a member of the Masonic lodge in Vancouver.

Surviving him are his widow; one son, Geoffrey Montigue; one brother and two sisters in England. The remains will be forwarded this afternoon to Vancouver, where interment will take place

Alleged Fabrications Of Documents May Bring Grave Results

Tokio Spokesman Warns of Probability of Strained Relations

SOVIET IMPLICATION ENTIRELY BASELESS

TOKIO, Oct. 10 (AP).—A foreign office spokesman indicated to the Associated Press today diplomatic relations between Japan and the Soviet Government might become strained as a result of distribution in Moscow of documents which Japan brands as "utter fabrications."

The documents are purported to be official Japanese communications concerning a plan to seize the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The spokesman said:

DEPENDS ON RESPONSE

"Whether the diplomatic relations between Japan and the Soviet will continue depends upon the Soviet's response in some form to the demarche which Japan undoubtedly will make shortly in this matter."

He said Foreign Minister Hirohito is awaiting reports from Ambassador Ota in Moscow before deciding on a definite line of action.

The spokesman declined to amplify beyond indicating that a protest and warning was most likely.

The scheme from which the diplomatic situation arises, allegedly hatched by the Japanese Administration in Manchukuo, was described in statements reportedly directed by Ambassador Hisikari in Manchukuo to the foreign office at Tokio and by the Japanese consul at Harbin to Hisikari.

"UTTER FABRICATIONS"

"These documents," said a foreign office spokesman, "are utter fabrications. Soviet implications concerning activities of Japanese mili-

J. Rowland Withdraws From Race

Announcement was made last night by John Rowland, 1041 Craigdarroch Road, who had previously expressed his intention of running in the forthcoming election, that he had decided to withdraw.

Mr. Rowland explained that after further study of the economic policies that he advocated he found that, if elected, he would be prevented by Parliamentary procedure from bringing them forward. All measures dealing with expenditures or the finances of the Government must be initiated by the ministry. In fairness to his supporters, he said, he concluded that under such circumstances it would be the proper thing to withdraw from the contest, and he so decided.

The decision of Mr. Rowland to withdraw his name from the list of candidates leaves only twenty-nine contestants for the four Victoria City seats. It is expected, however, that several dark horses will appear at the last moment and bring the total up to thirty-two—eight for each vacancy.

Lower right shows the map, on the back of which was a last will and testament.

Railway Leader Is Deeply Impressed by Optimism in West

E. W. Beatty Finds Question of Moderate, Controlled and Financially Supported Immigration Is Receiving Attention

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 9.—"It is usual for those who visit Western Canada to return with a greater appreciation than ever of the optimism and courage of the people of that part of the country, and my recent trip has only confirmed what others have so often commended," E. W. Beatty, K.C., chairman and president, Canadian Pacific Railway, stated tonight when commenting on his recent Western trip.

"Notwithstanding drought, frost and the serious damage in some districts done by grasshoppers, the farmers in Saskatchewan and Alberta still retain their buoyant view, and the vacating of lands for those more favorably situated has not reached very large proportions. Direct relief in some portions of the country will again, unfortunately, be necessary during the coming Winter, but this, if efficiently administered will be cheerfully given by the taxpayers of the Dominion.

"It would be idle to say that the political and the financial situation of the Western provinces is satisfactory, and one is struck by the fact of the pre-eminent importance of wheat in the prosperity of the West.

METHODS BEING IMPROVED

"The question of improved farming methods is receiving the attention it deserves, and to it and a somewhat higher price of wheat must be attributed the better position of many farmers who have not suffered complete crop failure.

"The question of moderate, controlled and financially supported immigration is naturally receiving

STILL HUNTING FIVE FUGITIVES

One Escaped From Criminally Insane Ward Caught at Farm

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 9 (AP).—Elmer Becker, twenty-seven, one of six men who last night slugged an attendant at the Oregon State Hospital and escaped from the criminally insane ward, was captured tonight two miles east of Gervais, fourteen miles north of here. The other five fugitives were still at large.

Becker stopped at a farmhouse to ask for something to eat, police said. The residents, already warned of the break, notified the officers, who raced out and captured him before he could leave the farm.

HAD LITTLE TO SAY

Police said that Becker, although inclined to talk but little, told them that William O. Bowen was the leader in the break and was the man who wrested Attendant Charles C. Williams' club from him and with it beat him into unconsciousness. Williams was set upon by four of the inmates who had sawed their way through their cells. They took his keys from him, released two other inmates and escaped from the third floor ward through a first floor rear door. They had several minutes' start before Williams regained consciousness and spread the alarm.

SIX SPLIT UP

Becker told the officers, they said, that the six fleeing men split up shortly after they left the hospital. State police, following Becker's arrest, were concentrating their search between Woodburn, seventeen miles north of here, and Portland. They expressed the belief that Bowen and probably some of his companions would head for Portland and probably were already there.

Jewish Banker's Property Seized

BERLIN, Oct. 9 (AP).—The Government today confiscated the property of the Jewish banker, Hugo Simon, who is abroad. A short communique observed that Simon "had a close contact with the Socialist and Communist deputies even in 1918-19."

Simon was an art patron and also supported Leftist magazines.

Ship Sinks And Crew Is Missing

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 10 (AP).—A wireless message picked up early today by the coastguard station at Virginia Beach, from a station at Winthrop, Mass., said the Greek steamer Annoula was sunk Saturday, October 7, at 1:30 a.m. The message asked that ships keep a good look-out for twenty-one persons, missing.

The message was signed by the master of the Italian steamer, Montello. The coastguard said the position given in the message is approximately 600 miles east of Cape Lookout, N.C.

Bandits Seize $68,000 From Bank Messengers

WARREN, O., Oct. 9 (AP).—While pedestrians watched, two men snatched a money bag filled with $68,000, from a pair of Second National Bank messengers today, and raced away minutes ahead of pursuing peace officers.

The daring daylight robbery was completed with such suddenness the messengers, Charles Wolfe and Frank Fischer, made no effort to draw their weapons. One of the robbers carried a weapon, apparently a machine gun, hidden in a paper shopping bag; the other flourished a revolver.

As the messengers stopped their car and started across the street to the bank, the robbers walked up to them, and with an abrupt "You know what this is," yanked the money bag from the hand of one of the messengers. With equal suddenness they fled to a car in which a companion waited.

NOVA SCOTIA COAST LASHED BY HIGH GALE

Damage to Shipping and Orchards Estimated at Approximately Million

SCHOONER CAPSIZES; NO NEWS OF CREW

HALIFAX, Oct. 9 (CP).—Shipping was paralyzed along the Canadian Atlantic coast today and $1,000,000 damage was caused to orchards and the waterfront by gales which swept the area during the week-end.

With her flag at half-mast, the Saint John's Nfld., schooner, Telic, limped into Yarmouth Harbor today to report the loss of a member of the crew.

The missing man, Walter Butland, of Sydney, N.S., was washed from the ship's deck by a huge wave which sent the little schooner on her beam ends while all hands manned the pumps at the height of Saturday night's gale.

OVERTURNED BY GALE

Mute evidence of sea tragedy, the battered hulk of a big three-masted schooner drifted aimlessly tonight off Nova Scotia's Southwestern tip. Overturned by the force of a gale that snapped off her three masts like matchwood, the storm-tossed hull yielded no clue to her identity or the fate of her crew.

Furious seas that pounded the Newfoundland coast today carried the stranded steamer, Marsland, from her rocky bed at the entrance of St. John's Harbor and swept her into deep water, where she disappeared.

The 4,500-ton vessel had been hard and fast on Lighthouse Point since July 2, and her position at the narrows made her an obstruction to shipping.

HEAVY CROP DAMAGE

Heavy crop and property losses were counted in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland.

Nova Scotia suffered heaviest from the week-end storm. Fruit growers of the Annapolis Valley reported more than $250,000 worth of apples on the ground. Here and in New Brunswick and Newfoundland, field crops, highways and bridges were heavily damaged.

PRIVY COUNCIL ALLOWS APPEAL

Railway Found Not Liable for Damages Arising From Kapoor Fire

LONDON, Oct. 9 (CP).—The Judicial committee of the Privy Council today allowed an appeal of the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway, subsidiary of the Canadian Northern Railways, against the decision of the British Columbia Supreme Court, which ruled the Kapoor Lumber Company was entitled to damages arising from a fire the lumber company alleged was due to negligence of the railway. A cross appeal failed.

Kapoor Lumber Co., Ltd., was awarded $117,800 damages against the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway Company by the Supreme Court of British Columbia. The claim was for loss suffered on August 18, 1930, when its mill at Kapoor, thirty-five miles north of Victoria, was destroyed by fire. Plaintiff alleged that the fire originated on the railway right-of-way.

The British Columbia Court of Appeal set aside the Supreme Court award and ordered a new trial. The railway asked and was given permission to take the case to the judicial committee of the Privy Council in an effort to get dismissal of the action without new trial.

John Dean Back After Traveling Extensively

Keen Student of Municipal Affairs Returns With Many Interesting Impressions of United States and England — Relief Here to Stay

John Dean, keen student of municipal affairs, and candidate in several civic election campaigns, has returned to his home town after an absence of more than a year, during which he has traveled extensively in California, Mexico, Texas, Florida, New York and England.

En route home, he attended the International City Managers' Convention in Chicago, of which organization he is the only Canadian non-professional associate member. While in Chicago he inspected the Century of Progress Exhibition.

MANAGERS INCREASE

Mr. Dean pointed out the ever-increasing roster of city managers was an indication that this type of municipal administration was fast becoming the accepted form of efficient government.

As a result of his attendance at this convention, Mr. Dean returned convinced, as 'many of the delegates were, that indigent relief is here to stay. This he attributes to three factors: First, increasing longevity; second, growing disposition of employers to reject employees over forty-five and fifty years of age, and third, that the United States has about arrived at the maximum percentage of aged, when compared with much older nations, hastened no doubt by the influx of an excess of adult immigrants in the past.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

"I was privileged to attend three out of the four open meetings of the Economic and Monetary Conference in London, and with many more was disappointed that more was not accomplished, but consider it was by no means a wasted effort, inasmuch as all attending gained a better understanding of one another's difficulties and the fact that 'the dawn of international interdependence is struggling desperately with the darkness of ignorance and selfishness,'" Mr. Dean said.

"I was amazed at the buy British propaganda manifested in England by British commonwealth countries, Australia excelling, I think.

"From contacts in the United States there is a majority of magnanimous desire to aid the President in his efforts for betterment. I am convinced that his insistence on a reduction in the hours of labor is logically sound, while I am doubtful of the wisdom of unduly increased wages to the fortunate employed who are apt to look upon their wants through a magnifying glass and the needs of the unfortunate unemployed through a microscope, to say nothing of the economic aspect.

"It is beginning to be generally recognised that our desires have run away with out ability to pay for them and to bring down our wants to our means is the great desideratum," Mr. Dean concluded.

tunities young people never had before and never will have again," he told the students.

DOUBLE BENEFIT

"You will have the benefit of an age of glorious achievement and tremendous failure to guide you." And success, he said, must inevitably be associated with failure. The greatest successes come after the bitter teaching of failures.

The World Economic Conference, the Imperial Conference agreements of 1932, and the efforts of the Federal administration toward relief of the unemployed, were all touched upon.

There was little of a concrete nature apparent as a result of the conference, he said, but there was the fact that sixty-six nations met and agreed on certain steps that would be necessary, and he was confident that eventually these agreements in thought would be translated into action and beneficial results.

The 1932 Empire trade agreements had been attacked on the grounds they had not resulted in any good for the United Kingdom commensurate with the benefits Canada had secured.

UNFAIR COMPARISON

Mr. Bennett referred to the thirty years during which Canada had given the Old Country a preference and received nothing in return. "To compare thirty years of one-sided preference with a few months of reciprocal preferences is unthinkable," he declared.

On the subject of relief the Prime Minister described the steps taken by the Federal Government in 1930, immediately after he assumed office, and continued up to the present, and said the same measures were being adopted in the United States only this year.

wended their way out to Mount Douglas to witness the thrilling motorcycle hill climb, while another 1,200 persons turned out for the soccer game between St. Andrews, of Vancouver, and the Victoria team, at the Royal Athletic Park. Three Wednesday League soccer games were advanced to yesterday morning, and these games also attracted a strong following.

THE EXCURSIONS

Two excursions, one in and the other out of Victoria, were conducted by the C.P.R. yesterday. The Princess Louise brought 500 visitors to the city from Vancouver, while the Princess Joan took 348 Victorians to Seattle.

The waterfront was exceptionally busy during the morning, with four deep-sea liners docking. They were the Tyndareus, Empress of Russia and President Grant, in from the Orient, and the Santa Elena, outbound for New York and the West Indies.

On Sunday, every church in the city was crowded for the annual Thanksgiving services, many of which were of the musical type. All churches were beautifully decorated with fruit and vegetables, which were distributed to the poor yesterday.

Last night a political meeting was held, despite the holiday.

tary and civil authorities in preparation for the seizure of the C.E.R. are entirely baseless."

(As reported in Moscow, the plan was to arrest six Soviet officials of the railroad and thus complete an alleged plot to oust the Soviets from all authority in the management of the line).

A spokesman in the war office, in which the publication by the Soviet News Agency of the alleged documents aroused great interest and indignation, told a correspondent of the Associated Press.

ACTING IN BAD FAITH

"Despite Japan's efforts to settle the Chinese Eastern Railway problem peacefully, Russia is acting in bad faith. We must demand amends, a retraction, and guarantees of future good faith, otherwise stronger measures may be necessary."

Such measures, the spokesman amplified, would be two-fold: First, discontinuance of the Russo-Manchukuo negotiations for sale of the Chinese Eastern Railway, at present deadlocked in Tokio, and, second, the remote possibility of a rupture in diplomatic relations, which the spokesman indicated he did not believe would be necessary.

TO DEMAND GUARANTEE

Japanese officials declared the Soviet official news agency's publication of the Chinese Eastern Railway reports were considered "an unfriendly act," and that guarantees against a repetition of such an act would be demanded, failing which the expulsion of the Tass correspondent in Japan would be considered.

Officials considered the action of the Tass correspondent in Tokio in circulating the alleged Hishikari documents to Tokio vernacular newspapers after Rengo (Japanese News Agency) had declined to publish them required some kind of punishment.

Only one Japanese language newspaper published the Tass story, although several printed brief digests of the alleged documents.

Jowalla Singh told police he had been assaulted on Maple Street by a fellow countryman, who had grabbed his turban and struck him several times in the face. His story, police reported, was corroborated by Gurdit Singh.

STORY TO POLICE

Khurma was apprehended by Constable Louis Callan at his home on Maple Street, Saanich, and brought to the city police station, where Khurma said it was he who had been attacked. He told police that Jowalla had tried to choke him. Police examined Khurma and found a bruise on the right side of his throat.

Whether this assault has any connection with the two previous ones, has not yet been determined. However, Khurma, like Ditto, is not a Singh yet is a Sikh; while Jowalla is a Singh the same as Parpatee.

TWO KILLED IN SHIP EXPLOSION

Fourteen Others Injured on British Submarine—Leak Into Batteries Blamed

CAMPBELLTOWN HARBOR, Scotland, Oct. 9 (AP).—An investigation proceeded today into an explosion and fire in the submarine L-26, which caused two deaths and serious injuries to fourteen.

The blast occurred yesterday, and was due, officials believe, to water reaching batteries, which were being recharged through a hole in the hull.

Statements of the men less seriously hurt, and those who escaped, agreed on the slim margin by which a great disaster was averted. The crew were at their mid-day meal in the mess room, just above the battery-room. Batteries were hurled upward through the floor by the blast. Walls were splintered. Furniture was smashed. Men were thrown in all directions.

who was married to a Singh prior to her marriage with Ditto.

CUSTOM IN INDIA

It is the custom in India when a woman's husband dies, for the brother of the husband to become guardian of the widow. In the event there is no brother, a group of men from the same village as the deceased husband, is chosen, from which the widow may choose a husband.

Parpatee, when her husband died, elected to marry Ditto, who is not a Singh. It is believed that the vendetta surrounds the dispute over the choice made by Parpatee.

As yet, no arrest has been made in the assault case against Parpatee and the East Indian laborer on Ditto's poppy farm. A Singh is suspected by Chief of Police Allan Rankin, who is still working on the case.

DISARMAMENT ASSEMBLY TO MEET MONDAY

"We have not mentioned it officially. I see no reason why Germany, however, cannot claim that right to fortify the eastern frontier if it deems it necessary in the interests of defence."

The French tonight said they will resist any such German rearmament until the end of the first four-year trial stage during any convention which may be reached. The British took a similar stand.

It was indicated tonight the United States will endeavor to induce Germany to postpone the acquisition of defensive weapons.

Mr. Henderson suggested the adoption of a resolution which would authorize a permanent disarmament commission to begin functioning as soon as twenty states had signed any convention which might eventuate. Its duties would be the carrying out of provisional acts mentioned in the pact.

JAPANESE ATTITUDE

It was learned authoritatively Japan's attitude will be announced as not blocking the disarmament negotiations. If Europe adopts a system of armaments control, it was said, Japan will study the possibility of its extension in some form to that country.

RAILWAY LEADER IS DEEPLY IMPRESSED BY OPTIMISM IN WEST

the attention it deserves, and while, unfortunately, the problem is confused in the minds of many by unemployment and by crop failures in some districts, the great importance of it is not overlooked by those who realize there is no real connection between unemployment and the establishment on lands of those who will, from the beginning, be self-sustaining, and, therefore, not a charge upon the community and whose activities are not related to urban unemployment caused by other conditions.

DEMANDS CONSIDERATION

"I think I would be one of the last in Canada to recommend anything which would accentuate our present unemployment situation, but I am satisfied that the kind of immigration now being discussed, involving settlement upon lands of men who would be adequately supported and become self-supporting, is a problem which demands serious consideration.

"It must not be forgotten that no intensive flow of immigrants is expected or desired, that even the most moderate of policies will require a year or more to become effective and that any plans made in 1934 will not be operative until at least a year later and that we will have nothing to fear from the steady immigration of a relatively small number of people per annum under conditions of land settlement which will be carefully worked out for their and the country's protection."

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake up your Liver Bile —No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, every day. Without that bile, trouble starts. Poor digestion. Slow elimination. Poisons in the body. General wretchedness.

How can you expect to clear up a situation like this completely with mere bowel-moving salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They don't wake up your liver.

You need Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Safe. Quick and sure results. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c, at all druggists. 84

EXPLORER WILL STALK GRIZZLY

Bertrand Thomas, of Arabia Fame, to Spend Ten Days in Rockies

Bertrand Thomas, forty-year-old explorer who two years ago startled the geographical world by penetrating the "Forbidden Lands" and traversing the desert of Arabia, one of the greatest exploits of modern times, is going to spend ten days in the Canadian Rockies hunting the grizzly bear.

Mr. Thomas arrived in Victoria yesterday afternoon and immediately after his lecture tonight he will pack his luggage and set off for the mountains for a two weeks' "rest" from travel and lectures. Incidentally he hopes to get a skin or two to take back to London when he is finished with his lecturing tour in Canada under the auspices of the National Council of Education.

WORK IN ARABIA

Describing his "work" in Arabia, the distinguished explorer said: "The sort of work I did in Arabia is similar to what your early pioneers did in this country." He admits, however, that travel through the Arabian desert is not the sort of work that would have a very wide appeal, except to a geologist and explorer.

Arabia proper is the cradle of the Arab, and for centuries past has been known as "The Forbidden Land" to Europeans. Mr. Thomas, throughout his long journey, mingled with the Arabs when necessity made him, and it was only because of his knowledge of the customs and the prejudices of the Arab people, his knowledge of the language and the beliefs, that he was able to accomplish the feat which brought to him geographical medals from most of the world's best-known societies of the world.

MAGISTRATE IN ARABIA

Mr. Thomas was a magistrate in Arabia and conducted his courts in Arabic. He was also interpreter for King George when Arabian potentates visited in England, and through these accomplishments he was able to understand the conventions of the people of Arabia.

Mr. Thomas is lecturing at the Empress Hotel tonight and will relate, with the aid of lantern slides, some of his experiences. The lecture will be similar to that given in the British House of Commons and to King George "by command."

Homes of German Socialists Raided

Wagner was uninjured.

It was the fourth accident caused by deer on the highway in two days.

BRUIN'S LIKING FOR PORK FATAL

Black Bear Killed After Two Disastrous Raids on New Hazelton Pig Pens

NEW HAZELTON, Oct. 9 (CP).—William C. Little, pioneer of Woodcock, received two unwelcome visits on his farm from a black bear with a distinct liking for fresh pork. He heard a pig squealing and on investigating found that a big black bear had eaten a litter of pigs except one, and was attacking the brood sow. He got the sow away from the bear, but before Mr. Little could get his rifle the animal had retreated to safety.

The following day bruin returned, attacking another sow and litter, consuming five of the young pigs.

Then an Indian with a rifle came along. As a result the big bear will attack no more pigs.

CANADIAN DEBT CAMPAIGN TOPIC

W. E. Peirce Opens C.C.F. Campaign in Ward Two of Saanich Municipality

Declaring that if the present economic situation continues, Canadian banks, insurance firms and eventually the Governments will go into bankruptcy, W. E. Peirce, C.C.F. candidate in Saanich constituency, opened the federation campaign in Ward Two. He spoke in St. Mark's Hall, and other speakers were W. B. Caird and J. Macfarlane.

Mr. Peirce dealt mainly with the monetary side of the present situation. At the present time, finances of the country are in a deplorable condition, he said. "The total debt in Canada at this time is more than $9,000,000,000. Under our arrangement now, the amount of the debt by far exceeds our ability to pay," he declared.

C.C.F. WILL NOT PAY

"The C.C.F. is not responsible for the debt and will make no effort to pay it," he pointed out. He intimated if the federal constitution were in the way of changing the monetary system, it would be changed by force of the C.C.F. Mr. Peirce was of the opinion that the only way out was a fair stabilization of funds, giving all a large income.

Mr. Caird touched mainly on the planks in the C.C.F. platform. He advocated equality of workers and the nationalization of machinery and inventions. Taxation would be on a scaling system if the C.C.F. were placed in power, with those having the money contributing most to the coffers of the Government treasury.

ATTACKS EDUCATION

He attacked the present educational system, declaring it was lowering the morals of the youth of today. The present economic structure was based on the argument that profit must be made. This was wrong, he stated. No profit, but a "fair deal to all," was his opinion.

Mr. Macfarlane spoke on his experiences at the Regina C.C.F. convention and told of conditions in the East.

W. H. Griffiths Succumbs Here

William Henry Griffiths, aged fifty-nine years, died yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Margaret, at the family home, 935 Belkirk Avenue, and one son, Garth, at Pacific, B.C.

The remains are resting at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel pending funeral arrangements, which will be made later.

She is survived by her husband and her mother, in Alaska.

Funeral services will be conducted at Sands Mortuary Chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Interment is to be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE HELD

Many Attend Gathering at Metropolitan—Rev. O. L. Jull Gives Message

Following the practice observed here for some time past, a joint Thanksgiving service was held yesterday morning, when clergymen of various denominations took part in the exercises, while the large congregation was drawn from many churches of the city and environs. The services were held in the Metropolitan United Church.

An atmosphere of harvest, which is associated with the idea of Thanksgiving, pervaded the church, the harvest home decorations made use of in the Sunday services of the Metropolitan congregation, being left in place over yesterday. Grains, fruits and flowers adorned the edifice.

Rev. O. L. Jull, rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church, preached the special sermon for the occasion, enumerating many of the things for which the hearts of people ought to be thankful and leading up to the great gift of God which should inspire ever abiding thankfulness which was the gift of Jesus Christ who came to redeem the world.

SHOULD BE THANKFUL

The speaker said that there should be thankfulness to God for the many blessings which all enjoyed. They should be thankful that in God they had a God of love. He was thankful for the united spirit that prevailed among the churches of the city. He was thankful for the fearless stand taken by the church for what was right.

Above all, they ought to be thankful for the giving of Christ as a redeemer for each of them. He called upon all for introspection and see the many things that God had done for each one and for which they should be thankful. Service to Christ should be prompted when they realized what had been done for them all.

Taking part in the service were Rev. F. Comley, rector of St. Michael's Church, Royal Oak, who presided over the exercises; Rev. C. G. Mackenzie, pastor of Centennial United Church, who offered the invocation; Rev. G. A. Reynolds, of First Baptist Church, who read the scripture lesson; and Rev. E. F. Church, pastor of the Metropolitan, who offered the closing benediction. During the service a vocal duet was given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tupman.

THE POLITICAL FREE-FOR-ALL

Victoria's roster of candidates for the forthcoming provincial election has reached thirty. Only four of these can be elected. Thirteen different shades of policy are represented by the aspirants for office—possibly more. The variegated hues of the statements issued are symptomatic of the state of public opinion. Each candidate has supporters, and would have, no matter what theories of government he or she advanced. The odds are strongly in favor of a minority vote of the electorate in this community being recorded in favor of those who are to be successful. In other words, the situation has become so confused that there is little possibility of a clear mandate being given, on behalf of this community at least.

What is happening in miniature in this constituency is reflected in varying stages all over the province. The rest of the Dominion is poking fun at British Columbia. The plethora of candidates, so many of whom are utterly unfitted by lack of training, disposition and because of prejudices to aspire to the task of taking part in legislative efforts, strongly suggests that there was very great unwisdom in the move which did away with an election deposit. Moreover, there is substantial unwisdom in the policy which decrees the payment of sessional indemnities. Among some scores at least of the candidates now seeking election the desire is to win a personal stake during the life of the forthcoming Legislature. It is axiomatic that the roster would be considerably reduced if no sessional indemnities were paid.

This condition of affairs does not augur well for public-spiritedness. Those who have failed to make a success in their private careers are hardly of the calibre from whom much, if anything, can be expected in public office. After all, political success is largely due to the competence of individuals. It is the experience of all parliaments that where good government exists the personnel of those who are the chosen of the people is, generally speaking, composed of individuals who have attained success in their chosen spheres before seeking political office. That is only logical. The unfortunate thing now in this province is that there appears to be a tendency among certain persons to seek a sessional indemnity as a grubstake. That is a sordid aspect of the present election campaign.

There is no doubt that this province is passing through a period of political infirmity. Possibly the taint that has fermented will be thrown off by the fever and convulsion of an election; on the other hand, the present confusion of thought may be intensified by the result. The folly of it all is the miserable distraction that prevails and the unhappy divisions that persist at a time when the necessity exists for something in the nature of united action to aid prosperity in regaining control of the economic situation. It is true that provincial authority is limited, very limited, in this particular. How it is exercised, however, is symptomatic of unity of outlook among the people governed. The present election campaign indicates no such unity.

The character of public opinion determines the nature of government. If that opinion is sagacious, firm, vigilant, and of a character which regards power as a sacred trust, then administration will be proportionately strengthened. If, on the other hand, by any candidate or political party, citizens are proscribed by denominations and general description, that conception is nothing better at bottom than what Edmund Burke described as "the miserable invention of an ungenerous ambition, which would fain hold the sacred trust of power, without any of the virtues, or any of the energies, which give a title to it."

SOCIALISM, ANCIENT AND MODERN

There are certain respects in which the Woodsworthian revolutionaries differ from the followers of a notable agitator who flourished nearly five hundred years ago and created considerable stir in the England of that time, the celebrated Jack Cade. For one thing the Kentish rebel leaders with all their faults were at any rate opposed to public waste and extravagance. The complaint of the Commons of Kent in 1450 asked, among other things, for a more careful expenditure of the royal revenues. The modern Jack Cadians, on the other hand, do not want anything like that. What they want, and indeed demand in arrogant tones, is not retrenchment and economical administration, but a continuation of the policy of lavish expenditure, with the proviso that it shall be on an even more extravagant scale than hitherto. In the words of an outstanding modern Socialist agitator, "Don't talk of saving because it labels you an ass."

Cade was a man of ability in some lines. He was a good organizer. He was a first-class fighting man with wide experience in the wars. Like his modern imitators, however, he was capable of misleading his followers with large and impossible promises which inflamed their cupidity. "We intend to form a plan," declare the modern socialist leaders, "an infallible plan by which to regulate production and secure maximum efficiency in distribution and exchange." "There shall be in England," said Cade, "seven halfpenny loaves sold for a penny; the three-hooped pot shall have ten hoops, and I will make it a felony to drink small beer."

"We intend to socialize natural resources, public utilities, and other industries and services essential to the economic plan," say the modern agitators. "All the realm shall be in common," roared Jack Cade to his followers, "and in Cheapside shall my palfrey go to grass. There shall be no money: all shall eat and drink at my score and I will apparel them all in one livery that they may agree like brothers and worship me their lord."

When they come to treat of educational policy the promises made by the fifteenth century leaders differ from those offered by those of the twentieth. Jack Cade appears to have tried to please his supporters by hanging the Clerk of Chatham for the crime of setting boys' copies and writing his own name instead of making his mark "like an honest plain-dealing man." The modern agitators are more sophisticated. They will not abolish schools and hang the schoolmasters. On the contrary they will use them. They propose to turn the schools into seminaries for the promulgation of socialistic theory. Nor do the moderns intend to follow Jack Cade in his avowed intention of killing all the lawyers. The latter are to be spared and set to the task of "revision of all provincial statutes in order to bring them into conformity with C.C.F. policies."

THE ELECTIONS ACT

A letter in our columns today draws attention to some clauses of the Provincial Elections Act which do not seem to be observed by some of the candidates in the present election campaign. This is clearly a matter that ought to be the subject of an authoritative ruling before nominations take place. So far as we know it is neither the duty nor the privilege of a returning officer to interpret the Elections Act. In the last analysis that can only be done by the Courts. The Act was amended in 1932 and the forthcoming contest is the first election that will be held under the legislation as it now stands. It should be observed both in the spirit and in the letter. In parts it is somewhat vague and may be capable of different interpretations. If that is the case, then more specific language should have been employed. That language, however, is specific enough regarding those candidates who may seek support at the polls. It is upon this point that it should be determined whether, for instance, an Independent candidate is a representative of any political party or interest. He most certainly is not a member of a political party. The question is does he represent any interest but his own, and, if only his own, is an individual interest implied within the meaning of the Elections Act?

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This is Fire Prevention week when there is a campaign of public instruction in progress designed to encourage all individuals to exercise every care to prevent outbreaks. In the cast majority of cases where losses are incurred through fires the responsibility is that of individuals. It is true that visitations of Providence may be the case, that defective heating or lighting apparatus are responsible at times. In the latter event there are preventive methods by having periodic inspection. Apart from that feature of fire prevention there are countless ways in which individuals can exercise care. If everyone regarded such care as a prime necessity, and never allowed thoughtlessness to intervene, the fire losses in the Dominion could be very appreciably reduced and our people as a whole would be so much the richer. It is largely a matter of self protection. It is not only property but life as well that is endangered by fire. The risks of life are great enough without unnecessarily adding to them through carelessness. The campaign for preventive methods is one that should enlist the whole-hearted and sustained support of every right-thinking individual.

AUTUMN

The year is growing old! Man claims the right
To taste in age the ease his youth may earn;
But not so Nature—tired and spent, her plight
'Tis to be faced by storm and struggle stern.

Though dying, she must summon up her will,
And own nor snow, nor frost, nor wind her master;
For though the leaf decay, the sap stand still,
Her progress travels deeper, if not faster.

The glory of the Spring she sets in train
That, when the turning year shall slide the panel,
Young growth shall kiss to beauty death's dark stain,
And last year's dust shall prove the new life's channel.

—Eva Nendick, in John o'London's Weekly.

FRIENDSHIP

The world would be more happy if persons gave up more time to an intercourse of friendship. But money engrosses all our deference, and we scarce enjoy a social hour, because we think it unjustly stolen from the main business of our lives.—R. Shenstone.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

We have scotch'd the snake, not kill'd it.
—Shakespeare.

Pretty, in amber to observe the forms
Of hairs, or straws, or dirt, or grubs, or worms!
The things, we know, are neither rich nor rare,
But wonder how the devil they got there
—Pope.

The desire of the heart of every fisherman is to catch a big one; and we have never known a veracious fisherman who did not lose a bigger one than the biggest one he caught. Such being the attributes of the true fisherman, it is an easy matter to account for fabled Ogopogo and for his successor, the sea serpent of the gulf and contributory waters. There are limits to the size of even the biggest fish, but there are no limits to the length of the sea serpent. The size of a fish when out of the water cannot be exaggerated, because these things are evident to the naked eye and can be confirmed by weights and measures; but the length of a sea serpent which is partly out and mostly in the water cannot be computed except according to the active and luxuriant imagination of the fisherman. So why try to spoil a good story by insinuating that there never has been truth in any fisherman? Even the immortal Izaak himself exaggerated somewhat the attractions of the gentle art practised by The Compleate Angler. Why gibe and jeer when a modern fisherman adds a few cubits to the length of his sea serpent?

The fact has been demonstrated that there are more curious living things in the sea than ever has been dreamt of by the most imaginative person, whether fisherman or mariner. Many men who have gone down into the great waters have vouched for the existence of the sea serpent. Not only have those extensive travellers seen the monsters of the deep. They have smelt them. If there are any sceptics in our midst let them consult Mr. W. N. Lenfesty, who all his life has been not only a mighty and tireless hunter, but an inveterate fisherman. Our local celebrity, although he has not travelled far, has seen much. About twenty years ago he saw either the brother or a near relative of the sea serpent of the gulf in Saanich Inlet.

Mr. Lenfesty cannot vouch for the length of this serpent, because the creature appeared to be somewhat timid and averse to revealing its true proportions. The monster reared its head, which might have been the head of a carniverous camel or the head of graminivorous sheep, and about three yards of its neck, out of the water about a hundred yards distant from the boat of the fisherman. It did not spout like a whale, nor did it sound like a black fish, so it could not have been an animal of the species. It merely shook its vicious-looking head, snarlingly showed its fangs, and sank out of sight, leaving not a heaving swirl on the placid water.

When the man who had seen the first sea serpent in the coast waters of British Columbia unfolded his tale to his friends on shore he was in a position similar to that of the prophet who is not without honor save in his own country. Bill Bailey, who had been fishing in the waters of the arm for nearly a hundred years (so his friends say) asked Lenfesty what brand he had been drinking and searched the pockets of his jacket in the hope of finding incriminating evidence. But there was one in the company of fisherman who stood not in the place of the scornful. There was a companion in the boat of the fisherman who had seen the serpent rear its head and glare malevolently at the poachers in its preserves. The story of the original sea serpent was confirmed right on the spot, not supported after the lapse of many years. Furthermore, Lenfesty, differing entirely from the general tribe of fishermen, has been a teetotaller all his life, and his testimony is as authentic as that of holy writ.

The waters of Saanich Arm are so deep and so prolific in aquatic life that they have been the feeding-place and the play-arena of creatures, multitudes of them most minute, many of them of medium size, with some monsters in between, probably ever since the evening and the morning when the waters were divided from the dry land, and the work was pronounced good. If the descendants of the original inhabitants could write or would tell a story of the things they had heard about, they could tales unfold of wondrous things which had been seen by the ancient fishermen and mariners who fished in the waters of the Inlet.

Not so very long ago it was a common thing for schools of blackfish to enter the Arm and swim up almost as far as Porter's Island, apparently playing as they went like schoolboys in the game of leap-frog. How many years is it since a great whale sounded and blew in the waters of the Arm for several days, striking dismay into the hearts of trollers? This gigantic mammal was believed to have entered the Straits and lost its bearings, for it afterwards became stranded on the shore in the neighborhood of Port Townsend, and was proved to be between seventy and eighty feet in length. Serpents, however, are noted for their guile, and we doubt whether any of the aquatic reptiles ever will be captured and exhibited to the confusion of all the sceptics who scoff at fish stories.

KITSILANO BOYS' BAND

Sir,—On behalf of the Kitsilano Boys' Band, junior world champions, I desire to thank The Colonist for the splendid publicity which it gave the band over the past week-end, and which was the chief factor in bringing to a successful issue an engagement which, in its early stages, promised to be a failure.

Due to the holiday, the receipts of the concert on Saturday night left the boys facing a heavy loss and at a late hour it was decided to hold them over in an effort to recoup. The Colonist and the radio were the only means of publicity at such short notice, and well they responded to an appeal for help. The prominent front page notice which on Sunday morning covered the city through the newspaper's wide circulation was the means of gathering an audience of several thousand people at Beacon Hill Park on Sunday afternoon, and an overflowing crowd at the City Temple at night, with the result that the boys were able to cover all expenses and return to Vancouver with a nice contribution to their funds.

I would also like to publicly thank Mayor Leeming for the kindly manner in which he so readily acceded to a request for the use of Beacon Hill Park.

Mr. James M. Miller must also be remembered. Owing to the fact that Mr. Delamont, the boys' conductor, was taking a prominent part in the concert of the Symphony Orchestra in Vancouver on Sunday afternoon, an engagement which he could not break, it at first seemed that the plan to hold the boys over was impracticable. On being appealed to, however, Mr. Miller cheerfully agreed to fill the breach, and magnificently he did it. Many thanks to Mr. "Jimmy" Miller.

The community value of the radio in emergency was also illustrated by the several broadcasts given over C.F.C.T., for which I desire to also express appreciation.

By these several co-operative services not only were the boys saved a loss but two real musical treats were brought to the citizens of Victoria. CLEM DAVIES.

"INDEPENDENT" CANDIDATES

Sir,—Mr. Willis, returning officer, recently explained the requirements of the act (Section 52, 3) regarding candidates, and his purposed procedure as regards classification of the many varieties of "Independent" candidates.

I am unable to reconcile with the wording and intention of the statute Mr. Willis' acceptances of an Independent as a class of candidate who is qualified to stand; and it is with statutory qualification, not classification, we are alone concerned.

For comparison I will recite the sections of the statute and Mr. Willis' interpretation and proposed procedure.

Section 52 (3) says: " . . . the nomination paper shall state the political party or interest which the person is nominated to represent, and the form of nomination paper contained in Form 15 shall be varied so far as is necessary to carry out the provision of this subsection."

Section 81 (4) requires that the "Ballot paper name-grouping or arrangement accord with the nomination statement of party affiliations."

Section 169 (2) says: "A political party within the meaning of this section is an affiliation of electors comprised in a political organization which has expended money in the support of any candidate . . ."

Subsection (1) says: "Within thirty-five days . . ." (of the poll declaration) "the secretary and treasurer of the central committee of every political party . . . shall transmit to the Provincial Secretary a true return in Form 32 . . . as respects the political party, statements in detail of all electoral expenses and all disputed and unpaid claims of which the secretary or treasurer is aware."

The Victoria Colonist of September 24 quoted Mr. Willis as saying: "It is a requirement of the Provincial Elections Act (Section 52, Subsection 3), that candidates in Victoria and Vancouver shall state in their nomination papers what political party or interest they represent . . . This must be shown in the ballot paper." In extension of his statement Mr. Willis said "he would accept 'Independent' as a classification within the meaning of the act."

The Victoria Times of September 25 "Political Paragraphs," stated: "The many varieties of Independents . . . will all come under one head on the ballot paper it is indicated by the interpretation on classification placed by F. A. Willis . . . candidates . . . must state in namination papers what political party or interest they represent."

The act requires of a candidate:

1. Membership in "an organized affiliation of electors known as a party";

2. Public avowal of his political profession and affiliation in the nomination and ballot papers; whereas an Independent claims to play a lone hand free of party affiliation and pledges, and does not disclose his principles. This disqualifies him for candidature, individual or collective. Independency is, ipso facto, not a "party," as defined in Section 109 (2).

The electorate has the right to know the views of its "representatives"—Independent or other. To insure this disclosure is the purpose of the act. This purpose Mr. Willis' "interpretation" and "acceptance" defeats. (See Section 81, 4).

The returning officer cannot convert an "individual" into a "party" by a declaration; nor release either from the obligation (Sections 52, 81, 169), to state whom and what he "represents." An "Independent" represents only himself.

Also, a "Non-Partisan-Party" is a contradiction in terms, i.e., a misrepresentation; a partisan being a party supporter.

Mr. Willis' ruling appears to violate the letter and spirit of the act and to open the way to great trouble and litigation.

CIVIC RELIEF

Sir,—It has been published in the press on several occasions that the relief allowance for the children of the unemployed is $3.50 per month per child. Without any notice being given, the city relief committee cuts off $1 per month per child in families where there are five or more children. Naturally you would think that these poor people would need more, not less. The lame excuse given for this cut is: "That such families must have outside help or they could not get along." They, therefore, admit that the relief is not enough, but still cut it down. In there any sense in such actions? We are continually hearing of the need for more population for the prosperity of the country. Do we have to import this population for the sake of the dollars and cents the shipping and railway companies get out of it? It would seem so. For the action of the relief committee shows that they are in favor of birth control. THOMAS MOIR.

INDEPENDENTS

Sir,—British Columbia ought to be (and is becoming such) a promising livestock country. Its climate and soil are kindly to grasses that are nutritious and friendly to beef and butter making. At our exhibitions the quality of stock on parade is noticeable and keen competition is seen in every department of the industry. Quality is the watchword of the leaders, and no excuse obtains for the owner of a scrub cow. High-grade sires are general, and the milk flow and butter fat returns are in keen competition everywhere, and men talk Jersey and Guernsey and Holstein and Hereford in cattle, and Toggenburg and Saanen in goats as glibly as they do Plymouth Rock and Minorca or the Little Red Hen in the poultry line.

At the moment the talk runs largely to bull. Just now the bull is on parade—Conservative and Liberal bull. But the thinking ones, tired of results in both old rings, are thinking of the new breed—the Independent. The thought is growing that there is need for less personal emolument, and for more public welfare. What is needed is not millionaire leadership, but a prosperous rank and file.

Man leadership is in demand, a man who thinks in terms of general prosperity and who can say "Yes" to an opponent, and "No" to a supporter, when the fortunes of the general public are thus best served.

Planning for public welfare, and not plotting for party ends, characterizes the patriot.

THE DUTCH VIEWPOINT

Sir,—The following may be of interest to you.

Her Majesty Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands, opened the session of the States General at The Hague, with a speech from the Throne which revealed a deep consciousness of the seriousness of present difficulties. Her Majesty said in part:

"Production, trade and communications throughout the world are a picture of fundamental confusion. In the production as well as in the exchange of commodities, changes are manifest, which seem to have a large degree of permanence. Our agriculture, industry, commerce and navigation are thus required to adapt themselves to an extent which may render Government guidance, assistance, and even insistence, increasingly necessary. Now that the London Conference has not accomplished anything towards the establishment of reasonable conditions in the commodity trade, measures will have to be taken which, whilst avoiding monetary and economic experiments of a risky character, will increase the sales of our products within our own borders. Concurrently our exports will have to be extended, and one of the means towards that end will be found in our imports."

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

VIENNA COUP

In the typical squeeze situation, when a player is forced to unguard one or more stoppers in his hand, thus enabling his opponent to take tricks with minor cards, he can usually free himself of the pressure of discarding if he can choose his discards after the squeezing hand has been forced to choose his. The fundamental principle of the Vienna Coup is that declarer, playing a hand for a squeeze, must sacrifice the master card in one suit or more in order that the defence player may not have this great advantage of time in discarding. Although this line of play establishes as the top card of its suit an otherwise secondary card in an adverse hand, it frees communication between the hands of the squeezing partnership.

I played the above hand in a duplicate tournament at a contract of six no trump, but since every trick counts at duplicate, I was most anxious to achieve the maximum result. West opened the spade six; I played the spade knave from Dummy, and it held the trick. Now I played four rounds of diamonds, taking the last in my own hand with the ace. On the last diamond West discarded the club ten, and because I knew him to be an "honest" player I felt sure he was not false-carding. It was therefore obvious that should I finesse for the club king, I would lose a trick and make only six, and should I lead five rounds of hearts, it would be necessary for me to discard the queen of either spades or clubs on the last heart, whereupon West could unguard his king of the same suit and win a sure trick with the king of the other suit. I therefore played the club ace at the sixth trick, and then played five rounds of hearts, discarding my queen and three of clubs on the last two, at which point the position was as follows:

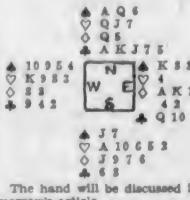

After I discarded the club queen, West had to choose between throwing the club king, whereupon dummy's knave would have been high, or the spade ten, thus allowing me to cash the ace and queen of spades. I, therefore, was successful in winning all thirteen tricks.

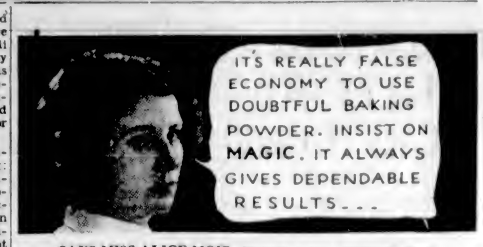

TOMORROW'S HAND

If East, vulnerable, has opened the bidding and South is playing a contract of four hearts, what is the most probable line of play to give him his contract provided East wins the first two diamond tricks and returns a trump?

East, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 19.6 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Senehess drydock, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of October 10, 1883)

Light Standards—The following positions were recommended as most suitable for erection of electric light standards at a meeting of the City Council last night: Northeast corner of Government Street and Yates Street, southwest corner of Blanshard Street and Burdett Avenue, and Blanshard Street east side directly opposite Chatham Street from the east.

Fire Department—At the last meeting of the board of directors of the local fire department, a communication was read from the Government granting the fire department a lot on Kingston Street, James Bay, for the purpose of erecting a fire house. By a vote of five to three, it was decided the salaries of the chief and assistant engineer should be increased.

Miners' Strike—There is no change at Wellington of any importance relative to the miners' strike, a special dispatch to The Colonist late last night stated. The strike is continuing and the Chinese are still at work in the mines. A general mass meeting of all miners will be held in the Institute Hall in Nanaimo on Saturday, but the reason was not disclosed.

Personal Note—Noah Shakespeare, M.P., will leave by the steamer North Pacific for Portland this morning on business. It is not known how long he plans to be away.

Fire Prevention Day Marks Anniversary Of Chicago Tragedy

Multitude of Possible Causes of Loss Through Flames Must Be Kept in Mind When Practising Prevention of Outbreaks

Yesterday was "Fire Prevention Day." It was the anniversary date of the great Chicago conflagration of 1871, when the city was destroyed with fatalities of over 200 lives and caused by a cow kicking over a lamp.

Apart from the destruction of property, a great deal of distress and grief was experienced, so this day was chosen throughout Canada and the United States as a reminder to the people generally to use every precaution to prevent fires, as the Chicago fire was one of the outstanding fires caused by carelessness, but, today equally greater losses are occurring through ordinary everyday carelessness and numerous fires it is evident could be prevented.

The losses in Victoria during 1932 amounted to no less than $57,283.54 and the record as kept by our Fire Department shows they responded to 457 alarms of fire.

LOSS THIS YEAR

For the first eight months of this year the total loss on buildings and contents was over $19,244, and to keep the fire fiend from getting a start, Chief Alexander Munroe and his men are using every means at their disposal to eliminate causes of every character. Daily fire drills are held, inspection of fire drills in the public and private schools is held, short addresses are given to the pupils on fire prevention, besides making over 8,412 inspections of buildings last year, and issuing no less than 220 notices to tenants requesting removal of fire hazards that existed when buildings were inspected by members of the local Fire Department.

The Fire Chief, together with the Victoria District Fire Agents' Association, are this week waging a campaign of education in the schools to keep in mind "Fire Prevention" and the citizens generally are asked to lend their aid and support in every way possible to the reduction of losses by fire, not only for today, but throughout the year.

COMMON CAUSES

"An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure" is often quoted, and the Victoria District Fire Agents' Association wish to call the attention of the public to the following common causes of fires:

Spontaneous combustion: Oils, paper, waste, benzine, rubbish, oily rags and paint materials. Thoughtless handling: Matches, gas fires, cigarettes, chemicals, electricity, pipe ashes and cigar stumps.

SIMPLE METHODS FOR PROTECTION

Care Is Message Found in These Maxims for Fire Prevention Week

Various rules for preventing fires are issued by insurance companies and public officials. All these rules may be summed up in the simple injunction: Be careful.

And if it is bright, snappy, clever fire prevention epigrams you are seeking, look no further, but just help yourself to any or all of the following:

Fire is a worthy servant, but a cruel master.

A word of prevention is worth a million in explanation.

Safety first, prevention second, security third, and so forth.

To avoid fighting flames, curb carelessness.

The firebug's excelsior is the fire fighter's motto.

Caution prevents fires, preserves property and stays grief.

Those careless of fire are as one who conspires to build funeral pyres.

Fire Prevention Week seeks to do away with weak fire prevention.

Let's starve the gluttonous fire fiend by cutting off his food supply.

The cost of one tiny match is oft a holocaust.

Fire waste's lesson: Lessen fire waste.

Conserve caution to lessen fire waste.

Negligence is the fire demon's chief ally.

Where fire prevention is weak, there is the greatest need for Fire Prevention Week.

Fire waste Canada's name has disgraced; let's all make haste to see the blot is erased.

Fire prevention is practical preparedness.

Answer the "burning question" with fire prevention!

See that your fire escapes are steps to safety, not to eternity.

Sparks spell fire—fire spells loss!

Safety each day keeps the firemen away.

Stop! Look! Stamp! A spark is a flame; a flame a conflagration.

Perpetual precautions preserve the premises.

Before you retire, look at your fire.

Prevent a fire—save a life.

An inch of prevention may save miles of conflagration.

Never leave a fire, thinking it will go out by itself.

A child and a match make a dangerous pair—two little heads with a care.

What we need is less fire and more fire prevention.

Faulty flues feed fire.

Increase the nation's resources by preventing fire.

Fire is the red menace of America.

Fight fire with foresight.

Fewer fires mean greater prosperity.

Care curtails conflagrations.

A single tree will make a million matches.

Everyone is asked to assist the Victoria and District Fire Insurance Agents' Association in the prevention of fires and loss of life.

Urges Co-operation in Prevention

ALEXANDER MUNROE

Chief of the Victoria Fire Department, who stresses the importance of realization on the part of every citizen of the personal responsibility each individual has in fire prevention.

To Try Again for Altitude Record

LIEUT.-COMMANDER T. G. W. Settle, well-known navy balloonist, plans a second attempt to reach the stratosphere from Chicago in an effort to surmount the height record of 11 miles, 1,406 yards (62,335 feet), set by three Russian scientists, Prof. Geo. Prokofiev, Ernest Brinbaum and C. D. Godunow. The new mark of the Russians is more than a mile higher than the distance attained in the flight of Prof. Auguste Piccard, Belgian scientist and the first man to reach the stratosphere. Settle's first attempt ended when his balloon failed to keep altitude.

Russian Count Comes Here on Lecture Tour

Count Nicholas Ignatieff, who is to be the speaker at the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club at the meeting this afternoon at the Empress Hotel, has been spending several days visiting friends and seeing something of the Island.

Born in the Province of Kief, Russia, of which his father was governor at the time, he later lived in St. Petersburg when his father became Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and then Minister of Education. He was educated in a Soviet school, and when his family was forced to leave Russia he accompanied them and continued his education in England at St. Paul's School, London. Later he graduated in engineering from King's College, University of London.

Now he lives in Toronto, and it was as the result of an address given there several months ago that the Association of Canadian Clubs invited him to take a lecture-tour through the Dominion under its auspices. He is the author of "A Russian Emerges," a brilliant and much-discussed work, and his Victoria lecture has for its title the interesting theme of "The New Canadian."

HI-Y CONCLAVE IS CONCLUDED

Three-Day Conference of Young Men's Organization Ends in Victoria

With the presentation of fifteen resolutions by Jack Fraser, Victoria, and William Dickson, Vancouver, resolutions committee, and closing ceremonies conducted by T. W. Chapman, provincial president, the three-day convention of the tenth annual Hi-Y Conference concluded in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday. The thirty delegates from Vancouver, North Vancouver and New Westminster have left for their homes. The 1934 conference will be held Thanksgiving week-end in New Westminster.

Since Saturday the sixty delegates, thirty of whom were Victorians, have held a series of discussions, open forums, dinners, and worship services. The discussion groups were in charge of Rev. J. Harwood A. Warr, assistant pastor of Metropolitan United Church; Robert Wallace, of Victoria College Faculty, and Russel Robinson, adviser to the Prince of Wales Hi-Y, Vancouver.

DISCUSSION TOPICS

Discussion topics included: "How Should the Hi-Y Prepare Young Men for Leadership?" "How Can the Hi-Y Fulfill Its Responsibility of Leadership?" "How Can the Hi-Y Set a Leading Example?" "How Should the Hi-Y Prepare Young Men for the Game of Life?" "How Can the Hi-Y Get Each Member to Put Into Daily Practice the Aims and Objects of the Organization?" "Should the Hi-Y Include Vocational Guidance for Young Men in Its Programme?" "Should Ex-Members Keep in Touch With the Organization With a View to Aiding It?" and "What Should the Hi-Y's Attitude Be in Connection With the Church?"

Sunday, the feature of the conference was the church parade to Metropolitan United Church, where Rev. E. F. Church conducted a special service and gave a sermon dedicated to the delegates. He spoke on "Buried Dynamite." Mr. Church referred to the early training of youth, and said everything instilled in a young man's mind comes forth at some time or other. Thus it is necessary to be absolutely clean in living, deed and speech.

INDUCTION CEREMONY

Sixteen young men were inducted into the organization with impressive rituals in the Y.M.C.A., Sunday night. The ceremonies were conducted by T. W. Chapman, William Ostler, A. Davies, Jack Fraser, Harry L. Smith, Russel Robinson, A. Kitchen and Vivian Shoemaker. At dinner on Sunday, Rev. Dr. Gerald B. Switzer, pastor of Oak Bay United Church, addressed the Hi-Y delegates on the topic, "Peace and War."

B. C. Nicholas was the chief speaker at the Saturday sessions. He dealt with the position of youth in the world today, and the outlook for the future. Jack Fraser, 1520 Despard Avenue, Victoria, was host to the delegates at a dance on Saturday evening.

Noted Woman Alpinist Is a Visitor Here

A distinguished woman Alpinist, Mrs. K. L. Wedgwood, president for some years of the Women's Alpine Club, of England, is a visitor in the city at the present time as the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Major and Mrs. F. V. Longstaff, Highland Drive. Accompanied by her two daughters, Misses Frances and Felicity Wedgwood, and a young son, Cecil, who has since returned to England to go back to Eton, she spent some weeks this Summer climbing in the Rockies, attending the annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada at Paradise Valley.

This is not the first time Mrs. Wedgwood has been in Canada, as in 1903, as Miss Kate Longstaff, she and two sisters and Major Longstaff and a younger brother, Mr. Gilbert Longstaff, accompanied their parents on a trip across the Dominion as far as Victoria. At that time, and again about seven years later, she climbed in the Rockies, attending one of the first of the camps held by the Alpine Club of Canada after it was organized. Before they attacked the Rockies this Summer, Misses Wedgwood had already done a great deal of climbing in the Alps, so that they were in excellent training for the several difficult ascents which they made in the Paradise Valley district this year.

A brother of Major Longstaff's and Mrs. Wedgwood's, it will be recalled, was a member of one of the Mt. Everest expeditions.

ARTS AND CRAFTS

In connection with the forthcoming annual exhibition of the Island Arts and Crafts, Miss G. Woodward, who will be in charge of the crafts room, invites all craft workers to contribute samples of their art, in spinning, weaving, knitting, sewing, embroidery of all kinds, basketry, wood carving, pottery, designs, in fact of all or any craftsmanship.

The exhibition will open on October 27, Miss Woodward will be in the crafts room, ground floor of Belmont House, on October 21 to receive exhibits and give information, which may also be had by telephoning her at G 2845.

SALTSPRING

The usual monthly meeting of the South Saltspring Women's Institute took place at the Institute Hall, Fulford. The president, Mrs. R. Maxwell, was in the chair. The secretary, Mrs. L. D. Drummond, read the report on the South Saltspring Annual Fair, and the prize winners received their rewards. The appeal for help for a special purpose from a local institute was left in abeyance until next month. As the Annual Conference of Federative Women's Institutes will take place in the Parliament Buildings, Victoria, on October 11 and 12, Mrs. R. Maxwell and Mrs. L. D. Drummond were elected as delegates to attend from South Saltspring. The tea hostesses were Mrs. H. Johnson and Mrs. Ross Young.

TO BE BURIED WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen Mitchell, who passed away in this city on Saturday, will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

SALTSPRING ISLAND, Oct. 9.—The Thanksgiving supper which took place recently in the Mahon Hall, Ganges, was a very enjoyable function and an outstanding success, on which the convener, Mrs. S. P. Beech, was most heartily congratulated.

The supper, held under the auspices of the Ganges Women's Auxiliary, was attended by nearly three hundred guests. The reception committee included the president of the W.A., Mrs. H. Moorhouse, Mrs. C. H. Popham and Mrs. E. Walter.

The hall and long tables stretching the length of the building were beautifully decorated by Mrs. Frank Crofton, Mrs. A. B. Elliot and Mrs. W. T. A. Burkitt, with zinnias, stocks, sweet peas, asters, Autumn leaves and red berries, grapes and vine leaves.

Mrs. Beech was assisted by Mrs. T. F. Speed, Mrs. H. Johnson, Mrs. F. Stacey, Mrs. Wagg and Mrs. C. Seymour, and the waitresses were Mrs. W. Norton, Mrs. W. Palmer, Mrs. C. Beddis, Misses G. and P. Beech and M. and R. Stevens.

The vicar, Rev. C. H. Popham, in a few words expressed pleasure at seeing such a large number present, as the evening had been organized purely for the purpose of bringing church members and their friends together from all parts of the Island. There was music during the supper, and afterwards community singing, Mr. P. Lowther accompanying.

Vocal solos were rendered by Mr. V. C. Morris and Mr. F. Stacey. Col. A. B. Snow gave a recitation, and Mr. P. Lowther a monologue on a football match. The evening was brought to a close with "Auld Lang Syne."

A.O.F.

The officers and members of Court Camosun, No. 9233, A.O.F., are requested to attend the funeral of our late Brother T. L. Rhodes at Sands' Funeral Parlor, Wednesday, October 11, at 3 p.m.

THE HAPPINESS OF MOTHERHOOD

It Depends Upon Health—Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Before my first baby was born I was very ill and dizzy. My husband went to the drug store and bought a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and made me take it according to directions. It certainly built me up. The baby weighed eight pounds and we were both healthy. I have three children now and I am as young looking as the day I was married. It has helped my 17-year old sister, too."—Mrs. J. P. Mezeran, 405 Eleanor St., Montreal, Quebec.

Local Rider and Eastern Boy Well Up—Parrott in Second Place

MONTREAL, Oct. 9 (CP).—Two hard-riding youngsters who scorned the reputations of the stars competing against them tonight held the leadership in Montreal's ninth semi-annual six-day bicycle race. They were Freddie Ottevaire, of Belgium originally, but now making his home in Detroit, and Pierre Gachon, Montreal. They sprang into the lead of the race in the first jam this morning, and at 10 p.m., twenty-two hours from the start, were clinging grimly to a one-lap advantage over such powerful outfits as Torchy Peden and Jules Audy; Piet Van Kempen and Polly Parrott. A record Monday night crowd of 7,000 watched the evening sprints.

Gifted Artists Joining Forces To Aid Bursary

Two accomplished artists, Marguerite Rickard, diseuse and singer, and Marguerite Devlin, pianist, are lending their talents for a concert to be held at the Memorial Hall next Friday evening. Sponsored by the Diocesan Women's Auxiliary, in the confident hope that the proceeds from the entertainment will guarantee two bursaries of $100 each to send two deserving Victoria students to the Anglican Theological College, Vancouver, the recital promises to be of unusual interest and novelty, and incidentally it offers one of the last opportunities Victoria will have to hear Miss Devlin before she leaves for Eastern Canada to fill a series of concert engagements there.

Mrs. Rickard's numbers will include her opening French group; a second group that contains such choice fantasies as Vaughan Williams' "Twilight People" and "The Piper," and Rachmaninoff's more serious "To the Children," and a closing group of folk songs—Italian, Irish, Scottish, French, English and negro.

Miss Devlin's contribution to the programme will be two pianoforte groups, the first including Gluck Saint-Saens' "Caprice," "Ravel's "Jeu d'eau," and Hummel's "Rondeau," and the second two De Falla numbers, "Danse de la Via Breve," and "Danse de Feu."

Newly-Formed Orchestra to Do Good Work

The first Winter practice of the newly-formed George J. Dyke String Orchestra will be held this evening in the hall of the Dominion Academy of Music, where future weekly practices will take place. This group of string players in some recent meetings (following its success at the Vancouver Exhibition Festival) has decided to continue as a string orchestra, with the parents of the members—Mrs. Charles Ockenden, convener—acting as a committee of ways and means. Stanley Hodgkinson and Roger Perullet have been appointed secretary and librarian, and Mrs. Harry Brown as social convener.

The string works of British composers will occupy the attention of the orchestra, during its early life at least, and will commence with Dr. George Dyson's "Pixie Land," Arnold Foster's "English Folk Airs," Dr. John Blow's "Venus and Adonis" and Pascal's "Carillon."

Those who have already joined as members are: Violins, Fay Ockenden (leader) Gilbert Margison, Ellen Brayshaw, Raymond Griffith, Alan Paver, Stanley Hodgkinson, Roger Perullet, Elizabeth Bashford, Grace Kogama, Bernice Ferguson, Albert Bevan, James Brayshaw, Irene Wilson, Hattie Harvey; violas, Leslie Jordon, Harry Brown, Clarence Webber; 'cellos, Carl Benn, Reginald Cooper, Raymond Simpson; double baso, Frederick Highfield; pianist, Phyllis Dilworth. Smyth Humphries will assist in the directorship of the orchestra.

Large Gathering Greets Vancouver Woman at Nanaimo

NANAIMO, Oct. 9.—Speaking to a large audience of women in the Masonic Hall on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Paul Smith, of Vancouver, paid a high tribute to the work and calibre of Mr. George Pearson, who has represented Nanaimo in the British Columbia Legislature for the past five years.

Some politicians became inactive once they were elected, and their rest led to stagnation, she said, but Mr. Pearson was known throughout the province for his labors against odds in the Provincial Parliament. He is not a selfseeker, but one who holds the interests of his constituency first.

She recalled the big Liberal convention in Vancouver in October last year, presided over by the late Mary Ellen Smith, who loved Nanaimo, and at which time the party's platform was outlined. Mrs. Smith was a pioneer in the Legislature and a pioneer of domestic legislation which had brought happiness to thousands of homes in the Province.

PURCHASING POWER

Some thought the money thus spent was gone, but in reality it immediately went into circulation for necessities and began revolving and increased the purchasing power of the Province, said the speaker. It had placed thousands of women in British Columbia on a more equitable basis. The Liberal party proposes to move forward in social and domestic legislation and to make an effort to decrease the administrative costs to enable more to go to the persons for whom it was intended and to award the privilege strictly on the merit of each case.

The C.C.F. platform painted an idealistic picture, but chaos never brought improvement, and persons suffering at the present time would find their conditions worse under a regime brought about by disorder, the speaker claimed.

With the Liberals at the helm, the standard of living would not be reduced, nor would the country be shut off from other markets of the world. By orderly development and evolution properly handled, progress and prosperity would be certain to follow, Mrs. Paul Smith concluded.

Trans-Pacific Ships Together Crossing From Japanese Port

Empress of Russia and President Grant Left Yokohama Within Few Hours of Each Other—Docked Here Yesterday

There was no money wagered by the skippers of the two ships, nor is it at all likely that a race was considered, although an excellent opportunity to make a long-distance steamship contest was presented when the Canadian Pacific Ss. Empress of Russia and the American Mail Line Ss. President Grant left Yokohama within a few hours of each other. Occasionally the ships were in sight of each other. Both ships docked here yesterday morning, the Empress of Russia being the first in, with the President Grant following some hours behind. It was about the same order of leaving the Japanese port, the Russia getting away first. Both ships experienced fine weather crossing the Pacific.

Arriving alongside Rithet Piers at 5:45 o'clock, the Empress of Russia, Captain A. J. Hosken, R.N.R., commanding, brought in a small passenger list, including 116 in all classes. For Victoria there were 502 bags of mail, and for Vancouver 281. Considerable cargo was aboard, and about 200 tons were discharged here, consisting of general, silk and silver, the greater part of which was for transhipment to the Grace Line Ss. Santa Elena, sailing yesterday afternoon for New York via way ports.

Among the more prominent travellers aboard the Russia were B. Wolf, of New York, silk merchant, returning from a business visit to Japan; S. Rossnwald, of Nuremburg, representative of large hop producing concerns in Germany, proceeding home after a business tour of Japan; P. Fleming, correspondent of The London Times, on his way home after an extended tour of China and Manchuria; Walter Siegfried, Chicago, tea merchant, concluding an annual visit to Japan; F. R. Guiness, London, wool buyer, on his way to England, and A. C. Lambe, Vancouver, where he is manager of Cassidy's.

Others aboard the liner included Captain D. Stansby, of Hongkong, of the British army, proceeding home; Mrs. E. C. Humphreys, Hongkong, wife of Dr. E. C. Humphreys and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Humphreys, of Duncan; Mrs. Elizabeth Washington, Charlestown, mother of the Third Secretary of the United States Embassy at Tokio, who has been spending the Summer in Japan; A. H. Munson, Seattle, canning expert from Kamchatka, returning to his home, and Mrs. J. E. Fullam, Shanghai, wife of J. E. Fullam, of the Shanghai Telephone Company.

BROUGHT SMALL LIST

Being off her schedule, the American Mail Line Ss. President Grant, Captain R. J. Healy, commander, had a very small list of passengers from the other side of the Pacific aboard when she docked at Rithet Piers at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The liner had considerable cargo, however, and left 300 tons of general here before proceeding to Seattle at 12:45 o'clock, including a shipment of silk, which will go South tomorrow night aboard the coast liner Ss. H. F. Alexander. The greater part of the balance of the cargo is for Eastern Canadian destination.

Among the passengers aboard the President Grant were Lieutenant P. S. Hogarth, U.S.N., returning from duty with the United States fleet in the Orient; T. Kato, Japanese tourist proceeding to the Century of Progress Fair at Chicago; W. A. Ney, chief commissary steward, returning to the United States after a tour of duty with the United States fleet in the Orient, and Arlie Lawry and Antone Novak.

TYNDAREUS HERE

Following the Empress of Russia in from quarantine, the Blue Funnel Line Ss. Tyndareus, Captain T. Nevison, tied up at Rithet Piers shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday morning, inbound from China and Japan ports. The liner proceeded to Seattle at 9:30 o'clock, shortly after the Russia left for Vancouver. The Tyndareus had fifty-two Chinese passengers for Canadian ports, and discharged some general cargo, including a raw silk shipment for New York, which was loaded aboard the Santa Elena later in the afternoon.

Sailing for New York via California, Mexico, Central America, Canal Zone and Havana, the Grace Line Ss. Santa Elena, Captain Nils Jensen, got away from Victoria at 7 o'clock last evening, with a capacity list of travelers aboard. A number of passengers embarked here, including Californians returning home after spending the week-end on the Island. Fifteen motor cars were loaded and a quantity of freight. The cargo consisted of silk, silver and general left by the Empress of Russia, silk and general from the Tyndareus, and a large shipment of rabbit skins left by the Canadian-Australasian liner Aorangi for New York. The Santa Elena docked from Seattle shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Among the travelers embarking here were Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hodges, the former manager of the Empress Hotel; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Devenish, he former connected with the Western Division, Canadian Pacific Hotels; Miss K. Kitchen, and Commander and Mrs. Longstreth, returning to their home in California after spending the Summer in Victoria.

SAILING SOUTH

Bound for California ports, the Pacific Steamship Lines Ss. H. F. Alexander is due alongside Rithet Piers at 8 o'clock this evening. She will sail for San Francisco, her first port of call in the South, two hours later, after embarking Island and Mainland passengers.

On her way to Australia, via Hawaii, Fiji and New Zealand, the Canadian-Australian motorship Aorangi will be here for two hours tomorrow afternoon. The ship will arrive at 4 o'clock and sail at 6 o'clock.

Excursions Well Patronized on Thanksgiving Holiday

EXCURSIONS conducted by B.C. Coast Service were fairly well patronized yesterday. The Ss. Princess Joan left the Belleville Street docks of Canadian Pacific Steamships at 8:30 o'clock in the morning for Seattle, with 350 excursionists aboard, and returned here shortly after 10 o'clock last night. From Vancouver the Ss. Princess Louise arrived here shortly after 1 o'clock in the afternoon with slightly over 500 trippers aboard. She left on the return trip at 5:30 o'clock.

Boats in the regular ferry services between Victoria, Seattle and Vancouver all enjoyed good patronage over the week-end, the opportunity to visit friends in nearby cities under prevailing weather conditions being taken full advantage of.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERSHIP

Sixty business men of Victoria will gather in the Y.M.C.A. cafeteria tonight, at 6:15 o'clock, to open that organization's campaign to increase membership by 500 persons. Teams and groups will be formed, and the eight-day drive will get under way immediately. E. Rowebottom is campaign manager.

At tonight's banquet, Norvall Peterson, well-known local radio actor and entertainer, will be in charge of the entertainment. Throughout the week dinners will be held in order that the progress of the campaign may be reported. October 13, October 16 and the final day of the drive, October 18, are dates for progress dinners.

Although the campaign is primarily for senior members, junior subscriptions will be received, stated Frank Paulding, Y.M.C.A. secretary, last night. "We are seeking an increase in membership in order to increase our courses. If the required list is received, we will start new groups at once. Archie McKinnon, coach at the Y.M.C.A. this year, is paying particular attention to the physical development of those young men and seniors who are unable to fit into our class times," declared Mr. Paulding.

Prizes are being offered for the team bringing in the largest number of members, and will be presented on October 18, at the campaign dinner.

COMMUNISM NOT SO BAD

Menace Localized in China —Russian Troops Massed Along Amur River

Reaurning to London following an extended visit to China and Manchuria, P. Fleming, special correspondent of The London Times, arrived here yesterday morning on the Ss. Empress of Russia from Shanghai.

Concerning conditions in the Orient, Mr. Fleming stated that Japan was in Manchuria to stay at all costs. Banditry is still a considerable worry to the Japanese authorities there; but if they can avert trouble with Russia, retaining it will not be so difficult.

Argument over railway matters may precipitate real trouble between Russia and Japan any day. The situation is somewhat tense, and great numbers of Soviet soldiery are massed along the Amur River. What Japan fears most is the Soviet air fleet. Japan is within easy striking distance of bombers from Vladivostock and other points on the coast. As a result, the authorities are rehearsing the action to be adopted when air raids become a possibility. Alarms are sounded in the principal cities, lights go out, and the populace quite frequently seek indicated safety zones.

HIGHWAYS EXCELLENT

Communism in China, although causing plenty of concern to the Government, was not so bad as was generally supposed, Mr. Fleming said. In certain localities, it undoubtedly had considerable strength, particularly in Kiangsi Province, but General Chiang Kai Shek had isolated the menace and was handling the situation in an able manner. Mr. Fleming paid a compliment to Chinese road builders. In the interior of the country the highways were excellent, he said, while the modern bus services might be equalled but not excelled anywhere. There was an honest endeavor on the part of some Chinese officials, at least, to develop the country.

The Russian people, although not accomplishing anything in a spectacular way, seemed to be making good progress. He qualified his statement by stating that he hadn't seen a great deal of the country and couldn't speak with any authoritative knowledge of conditions any distance from the railroads.

AUTHOR OF BOOK

Mr. Fleming is the author of a book which was published in July last. Its title is "A Brazilian Adventure," and has been featured in America as the "Best Book of the Month."

He traveled through Russia on his way to Manchuria and China, and left here for New York, traveling over the North Coast Limited. He will go later to Montreal, where he will join the Ss. Empress of Britain.

Outside Federal Control

—Central Press Photograph.

THIS picture shows Gambling Row's "Tragedy Ship," the Johanna Smith II, anchored just outside the Federal control line off San Diego, California. It was aboard this craft, amid the sound of clicking dice and the raucous shouts of croupiers and the whir of ricocheting ivory balls that Buell Dawson was shot to death allegedly by his "pal," James Walsh, twenty-two. Walsh, when arrested as he reached Long Beach docks, is asserted by police to have made a complete confession.

SHIPS TO MAKE UNIQUE CRUISE

Swedish Vessels Appeal to Travelers Who Have Plenty of Time

As a result of steadily improving business conditions, the General Steamship Corporation, Ltd., announces that the motorship Mirrabooka, round-the-world liner of the Swedish Trans-Atlantic Steamship Company, Ltd., will re-enter the Australian trade this Winter.

This sixteen-knot motorship, which carries twenty-two passengers, will leave the Pacific Coast in February on a unique cruise around the world via Australia and Europe. Fares have been cut by approximately 40 per cent, and it is believed that the new low rates will attract considerable attention among tourists who wish to journey off the beaten track.

After making her Australian ports of call, the liner will proceed via the Suez Canal to Dunkirk and Antwerp, with a possible visit to Germany and England, thence to Scandinavia. Return to the Pacific Coast will be made via the Panama Canal. The entire cruise will require about five months.

With her sistership, the Parrakoola, the Mirrabooka in recent years has proved popular with travelers who enjoy lazy, vagabond voyages to odd ports of the world with the comfort and privacy of a yacht. The service and cuisine are comparable with that of some of the finest ships afloat, and there is added an air of intimacy and friendliness that makes such a cruise an adventure to be remembered in more ways than one.

PERSONAL ITEMS and SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Reception Is Held on Ship After Service

Christ Church Cathedral was the scene of a lovely wedding yesterday evening at 5 o'clock when Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, united in marriage Fannie Ethel Wright, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wright, of this city, to Dr. Douglas John Sutherland, of Vancouver, only son of Mr. John Sutherland and the late Mrs. Sutherland, of Cumberland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared very smart in a queen blue suede velvet suit, with dainty pine green pleated georgette blouse and a matching velvet hat banked with small white feathers at the back. White gloves and a corsage of white gardenias completed the ensemble. Attending the bride was Miss Rhea May Black, of Vancouver, who looked chic in a frock of pine green, trimmed with two-tone buttons of the same shade. She wore hat, gloves and shoes of a darker shade of green and a corsage of tiny yellow rosebuds.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wright wore a navy tailleur with matching accessories and a corsage of lilies of the valley.

An informal reception was held in the bridal suite aboard the Ss. Santa Elena, on which Dr. and Mrs. Sutherland sailed for Mexico. On returning from the South, they will take up residence in Vancouver.

B.C. Branch Represented At Ceremony

In response to an invitation from Mayor W. G. Clark, of Fredericton, N.B., the British Columbia Branch of the United Empire Loyalists' Society appointed one of their Victoria members, Mrs. Ida White, to represent them at the ceremonies which took place on Sunday, in that city.

The York and Sunbury Historical Society, with the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, and others, placed a memorial to the United Empire Loyalists who came to Fredericton October 8, 1783, and who are regarded as the real founders of the city. Following a military parade, the ceremony began at 12:45 p.m., when His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor unveiled the monument.

The inscription for the tablet on the boulder reads as follows: "That ye may tell it to the generations following."

To commemorate the loyalty, faith, courage, sacrifices and achievements of early settlers who established this city of Fredericton, a grateful posterity has erected this monument.

The unveiling took place October 8, 1933, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the arrival in this locality of a company of United Empire Loyalists, some of whom are buried in the nearby cemetery, having died from the effects of cold and privation suffered during their first Winter here."

CHAPTER XXXII

"I assure you," Hendron told Tony and Eve and their fellow passengers, "that except for its monotony, the trip will offer you no further great discomfort until we reach Bronson Beta, when we shall be under the necessity of repeating approximately the same manoeuvre. In something less than an hour we are going to turn the periscope on France in an effort to observe the departure of the French equivalent of our ships. We are at the moment trying to locate our second Ark, which took its course at a distance from us to avoid any chance of collision, and being between us and the sun, is now temporarily lost in the glare of the sun.

"At about mid-point of our voyage we will concentrate our attention on the collision between the earth and Bronson Alpha. I think at this point I may express my satisfaction in the behavior of the Ark. As you all are aware, we have escaped from the earth. We are still well within the field of its gravitational control, in the sense that of our propellent forces ceased, we undoubtedly would fall back upon the earth; but the pull of gravity is constantly weakening. It diminishes, as most of you know, not directly in relation to the distance, but in relation to the square of the distance. It is the great lessening of the pull of gravity which has ended our extreme distress. I am going now to convey the same information to the passengers on the deck above."

Hendron disappeared through the opening in the ceiling which contained the spiral staircase.

Tony saw to the distribution of food and water. The ship rushed through the void so steadily that cups of milk, which Eve held to the lips of the children, scarcely spilled over. The passengers found that they could move from floor to floor without great trouble.

Fans distributed the air inside the ship. Outside, there was vacuum against which the airlocks were sealed. The air of the ship, breathed and "restored," was not actually fresh, although chemically it was perfectly breathable. The soft roar of the rocket propulsion-tubes fuddled the senses. The sun glared in a black sky studded with brilliant stars.

To the right of the sun, the great glowing crescents of Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta loomed larger and larger. Eve sat with Tony as a periscope turned on them and displayed them on the screen. They could plainly see that Bronson Alpha was below and approaching the earth; Bronson Beta, slowly turning, was higher and much nearer the ship.

"Do you see their relation?" she asked.

"Between the Bronson bodies?" said Tony. "Aren't they nearer together than they have ever been before?"

"Much nearer, and as father—and Professor Bronson—calculated, Bronson Beta, being much the smaller and lighter, was revolving about Bronson Alpha. The orbit was not a circle; it was a very long ellipse. Sometimes, therefore, this brought Bronson Beta much closer to Alpha than at other times. When they went around the sun, the enormous force of the sun's attraction further distorted the orbit, and Bronson Beta probably is nearer Alpha now than it ever was before. Also, notice it is at the point in its orbit which is most favorable for us."

"You mean for our landing on it?" asked Tony.

"For that, and especially is it favorable to us, after we land, if we do," amended Eve, and she gathered the children to her. She sat between them, an arm about each, gazing at the screen.

"You see, the sun had not surely 'captured' Bronson Beta and Bronson Alpha. They had arrived from some incalculable distance and they have rounded the sun, but, without further interference than the sun's attraction, they would retreat again and perhaps never reappear.

"But on the course toward the sun, Alpha destroyed the moon, as we know, and this had an effect upon both Alpha and Bronson Beta, controlled by Alpha. And now something even more profound is going to happen. Alpha will have contact with the world. That will destroy the earth and will send Bronson Alpha off in another path. One almost certain effect of the catastrophe is that it will break Bronson Beta away from the dominating control of Bronson Alpha and leave Beta subject to the sun. That will provide a much more satisfactory orbit for us about our sun."

"Us?" echoed Tony.

"Us—if we get there," said Eve, and she bent and kissed the children.

At the end of the hour all the lights in the passenger quarters were turned out, and the earth was again flashed on the screen. Its diminution in size was already startling, and the remains of Europe, stranded in a new ocean, looked like a child's model flour-and-water map.

Duquesne lay on his back on deck and stared up at the scenery. He gave an informal lecture as he looked. "We are putting distance between ourselves and a number of prize fools. These fellows are my best friends. You will pick out faintly the map of Europe. Directly south of those shadows which were once the British Isles, you see configuration of the Alps. In the centre of the western range are the fools of whom I spoke. They built a ship not dissimilar to this, but unfortunately relying upon another construction than that valuable little metal discovered by Mr.—whatever his name is. I have told them they shall melt. I hope that we shall be able to see the joke of that fusion."

Duquesne glanced again at his watch, and looked up at the screen on which, like a stereoptican picture, hung the earth. Suddenly he sat bolt upright.

A point of light showed suddenly in the spot he had designated. It was very bright, and as a second passed, it appeared to extend so that it stood away from the earth like a white-hot needle.

But Duquesne was not laughing as he had promised. Instead he sat with his head bent back, his hands doubled into fists which pounded his knees. The seconds passed slowly. Everyone under the glass screen watched gravely and breathlessly. Only the rocket trail of the ship could be seen, as the ship itself was too small and too far away to be visible.

Duquesne was standing. He suddenly seemed conscious of those around him. "They go, they go, they go, they go! Maybe they have solved this problem. Maybe they will be with us."

Suddenly a groan escaped him. The upshooting light curved, became horizontal and shot parallel with earth, moving apparently with such speed that it seemed to have traversed a measurable fraction of the Alps while they watched.

Abruptly, then, the trail zigzagged; it curved back toward the earth, and the French ship commenced to descend, impelled by its own motors. In another second there was a faint glow and then—only a luminous trail, which disappeared rapidly, like the pathway of fire left by a meteor.

Duquesne did not laugh. He wept. After a long time he began to talk, and they listened with sympathy. "And yet I told them, but it was their only hope, so they were stubborn." He looked at the people in the chamber. "Did you see? It melted. First the right tubes, throwing it on a horizontal course, then all of it. It was quickly over—grace a Dieu."

But other flashes rose and traveled on. The English, the Germans, perhaps the Italians had got away.

The implications of these sights transcended talk. Conversation soon ceased. Exhaustion, spiritual and physical, assailed the travelers.

Gravity diminished steadily, and their habit of relying upon the attractive force of the earth resulted in an increasing number of mishaps, some of them amusing and some of them painful. After what seemed like eons of time someone asked Tony for more food. Tony himself could not remember whether he was going to serve the fifth meal or the sixth, but he sprang to his feet with earnest willingness—promptly shot clear to the ceiling, against which he bumped his head. He fell back to the floor with a jar and rose laughing. The ceiling was also padded, so that he had not hurt himself.

The sandwiches were wrapped in wax paper, and when some one on the edge of the crowd asked that his sandwich be tossed, Tony flipped it toward him, only to see it pass high over the man's head and entirely out of reach, and strike against the opposite wall. The man himself stretched to catch the wrapped sandwich, and sat down again rubbing his arm, saying that he had almost thrown his shoulder out of joint.

People walked in an absurd manner, stepping high into the air as if they were dancers. Gestures were uncontrollable, and it was unsafe to talk excitedly for fear one would hit one's self in the face.

Before this condition reached its crisis, however, Hendron himself appeared in the passenger cabin for one of his frequent visits. He arrived, not by way of the staircase, but by way of the cable which was strung tautly inside the spiral, hauling himself up hand over hand with greater ease and rapidity than was ever exhibited by any sailor. He was greeted with pleasure—any slight incident had an exaggerated effect upon the passengers; but his demeanor was serious.

"I want you all to be witnesses of the reason for this journey," he said soberly.

He switched off the lights. The screen glowed, and on it they saw the earth.

"Deficiency the Robber" is at the table, too

PICTURED above is a typical lunch of good, wholesome food—sausages, potatoes, stewed corn, pumpkin pie, bread, coffee. While wholesome, the meal is excessive in starch and deficient in Vitamins.

It is a fact well-known to science that 50 per cent. of the foods making up the usual every-day diet are deficient in vital and essential elements, such, for example, as vitamins and minerals.

Science has also definitely proven that these deficiencies do rob people of vigor, strength and resistance. So true is this that animals fed on a diet lacking Vitamin B_1 will die in a comparatively short time.

Humans do get some Vitamin B_1 in their modern every-day meals, but frequently not enough. A deficiency in this important Vitamin causes impairment of appetite and digestion, loss of weight and vigor, constipation and various nerve disorders.

An addition of the delicious new food-drink VIP to your daily diet will not only bring you an increased supply of Vitamin B_1, but of three other important Vitamins, iron, other valuable minerals and proteins.

VIP is a dietary corrective which science now supplies you to overcome "Deficiency The Robber". And VIP's nut-like, chocolate-malt flavor is irresistibly delicious. Made with ice-cold milk, VIP is a wonderfully zestful summer drink. Served hot it is a sleep-inducing night cap.

Your druggist or department store has VIP in two sizes—65c and $1.10.

FRUIT GROWERS SCORE VICTORY

Injunction Dissolved When Shippers Agree to Abide by Terms of the Board

KAMLOOPS, Oct. 9 (CP).—Dissolution of an injunction Saturday signalized a victory for Okanagan Valley fruit growers in their struggle for orderly marketing of apples.

The injunction, which prohibited shipment of bulk carloads of fruit in contravention of Stabilization Board regulations, was dissolved only after both shippers named had agreed to abide by its terms.

Joseph and Felix Casorso, heads of the Beigo-Co-operative Growers, consented today to stop shipment of apples in bulk lots. Friday, Rowcliffe Bros. signified their willingness to observe the Stabilization Board's rulings.

Judge W. Swanson congratulated all parties on the amicable settlement.

Motorist Killed On Mountainside

SPOKANE, Oct. 9 (AP).—After rolling 200 feet over a mountainside, killing the driver, the automobile of Samuel A. Hinton, thirty-eight, Spokane, was demolished by a railroad train near St. Maries, Idaho, Friday night, it was revealed today.

Hinton was believed to have been killed before the automobile landed, bottom side up, on the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad. Two hours later the train crashed into the wreckage, hurling the car and the body eighteen feet.

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 10 in your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 12 noon to 1:10 p.m., from 5:30 to 6:15 p.m., and from 8 to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. and from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

Influences operating on this date will tend to cause people to crave for companionship and affection. The individual who feels sufficient unto himself will perhaps experience a setback of some kind that will make him realize the need for help from without himself. Children will tend to remain in close proximity to their elders.

The child born on this October 10 will more than likely not be one to confide in his parents or friends. He will have few companions and from his closest playmates he will keep many things. He will be a great explorer in a limited field and will be into everything about the place. Nothing will be safe from his marauding unless kept under lock and key. An obedient youngster who will seldom be defiant.

If October 10 is the date of your birth, you are probably an unassuming person who gently but firmly goes his way through life seemingly quite untouched by much of the sordid that bubbles and froths all about him. You do not close your eyes to the suffering and misery of others, but you do not let it "get you." You do all that you can to alleviate the misfortunes of others, giving of your time and money. You work silently without thought of reward, hoping all the while to go unnoticed. When your mind is made up to follow a certain course nothing can make you change your decision. You think clean thoughts and you live a clean and wholesome life.

Born on October 10, you have such a desire for peace and quiet that you will stand a great deal from those about you in order to maintain it. You are long-suffering, but when you do get "fed up" you are not the type to "blow off steam"; rather, you simply pick up your things and move out of your unharmonious surroundings. You are surely capable of a great love and probably this will come to you early in life and will have a great effect in moulding your life. You will never do anything startling, unless it is maintaining without fail a kindly, gentle, loving and understanding attitude towards all those who cross your path. You will never give a thought to money and you will seem always to have enough to meet your needs.

VICTORIA WINS INTERCITY SOCCER FROM SAINTS

Bob Shanks Captures Girardau Cup Event At Annual Classic

Record Crowd Witnesses Motorcycle Club Hill Climb—Fine Exhibition Given—Two Spills Occur But No Injuries

Riding with all the assurance of a veteran, Bob Shanks, yesterday, took the two main events in the annual hill-climb of the Victoria Motorcycle Club at Mount Douglas Park. Well over 2,000 wildly-yelling spectators lined the course and cheerfully ate dirt for two and a half hours while the speed demons did their best to conquer the difficult hill.

Bob Shanks had little difficulty in copping the first event, open to forty-five cubic-inch machines, taking it with two record conquests of 9 1-5 and 9 seconds flat. Doug Hamilton, last year's winner, was right behind him, taking the hill twice, in 9 1-5 and 9 2-5 seconds.

The second event, open only to machines of seventy-four inches, was won without any difficulty by C. Paulson, the only competitor of the three entries who was successful in making the grade in 13 1-5 seconds.

THE OPEN CLASS

The main event of the day, open to all classes of machines, for the Paul Girardau Trophy, gave the record crowd plenty of thrills. Sixteen riders entered, but with the track badly ploughed up from the previous contests, only six succeeded in going over the top at the first attempt.

H. Whittworth started the ball rolling by taking the hill on his Indian in 10 seconds flat, after Reg Shanks had taken a bad spill after climbing 165 feet. Fenlon followed Whittworth over in 10 4-5, and then Butler, Doug Hamilton and Bob Shanks brought the total up to five.

The condition of the track was slowing the riders up badly and the best time that Butler could make was 13 seconds flat. Hamilton followed with 10 1-5, and Shanks turned in 10 3-5.

Bill Espley, riding an English four-cylinder Aerial, could not get started, and although his engine drove him from the pit like a bullet, he was stopped at 155 feet.

WINS IN RIDE-OFF

In the ride-offs, Bob Shanks made the grade in 11 flat, and Whittworth placed second with 12 2-5 seconds. Doug Hamilton was third on his first-attempt time of 10 1-5, failing to make the crest in his second attempt.

Young Espley put on a beautiful display on his second shot at the top, driving his machine over in 11 flat, but some question arose due to the failure of the timing device to operate, and it was not allowed. In an exhibition ride at the end of the meet, he got away to a beautiful start and shot over the top in 9 4-5 seconds.

Aside from Reg Shanks' spill in his first attempt, and his wild ride into the crowd half way up on the second venture, there were no accidents to mar the day.

The event, held under the patronage of Reeve William Crouch, of Saanich, was officially opened by the reeve at 2 o'clock.

Referee was Owen Fowler, assisted by W. Lemm and J. Andrews, starters; W. Dillabough, announcer; W. Ward and J. Norrington, recorders; R. Williams, H. Francis and G. Andrews, timers, and L. Scott and J. Haggart, tape men.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL

A solicitor, who had been asked out to dinner and was delicately "pumped" for legal information by his host, sent in a bill for "advice." To this the host responded with a demand for payment for the dinner eated by the solicitor. Equal to the occasion, however, the latter promptly threatened a prosecution for selling wine without a licence.

Displaying some fine teamwork, coupled with a stellar defence and brilliant goal-tending by Louis de Costa, Victoria's all-star soccer squad from the local division of the Pacific Coast League captured the first inter-city fixture of the season, yesterday afternoon, at the Royal Athletic Park, by blanking the formidable St. Andrews eleven, of Vancouver, 2 to 0. Close to 1,200 attended and witnessed a good exhibition.

The local squad played a strong game throughout and outplayed the Coast League champions of last season for three-quarters of the time. The Mainlanders had the edge in the late stages and tried valiantly to avert a whitewashing, but the work of De Costa was too much for their firing line.

Victoria's first goal in the opening half was more or less a fluke, but the second in the final stanza was as pretty a tally as has been seen at the enclosure for some time. After kicking off the Saints went on the offensive and De Costa saved beautifully from Rothweller. Play swung up and down the field at a fast clip, with Victoria having the edge. Robinson and John Watt combined their way through, but Rabbit saved from the former, while minutes later at the other end the Saints' goalie cleared a long attempt from Gibbons.

DE COSTA CLEARS

Robinson worked into position after taking Barnes' pass, but missed with a long shot which narrowly grazed the uprights. De Costa made a fine clearance by throwing Munroe's shot to the side as Rothweller came in fast. Victoria broke fast with Youson in possession. The right winger swung in towards the goal as Rabbit dashed out to meet him. Youson managed to slip the ball past him and Hyslop raced back to clear. He missed the ball completely and it rolled in the net for a goal of the soft variety.

St. Andrews went out to get the equalizer and probably would have had Rothweller remained on side. Three times the Saints' forwards swept down on the local net, but their attacks were halted when the referee spotted Rothweller offside on each occasion. Another fast breakaway was made by Victoria, but Robinson was caught offside with a sure goal staring him in the face. Victoria's forwards were breaking fast at all times and again Robinson nearly scored, but shot wide by inches, while Wagland banged another over the woodwork. Just before the interval, Cummings came on at fullback and Hyslop moved to left half in place of Alcock.

Tommy Musgrave replaced Magee on the local half line at the start of the second half. Right after the whistle Wagland narrowly missed with a terrific drive, while Morgan missed two chances due to poor footwork. Rabbit made a great diving save from Robinson and then, after fifteen minutes of almost continuous offensive work, Morgan broke away fast on the left wing, cut in toward the goal and let go a bullet shot which caught the top right hand corner. Barnes nearly added another after taking Robinson's pass, but Rabbit was on the job, while John Watt tested the goalie twice in succession.

SAINTS ATTACK

The Saints attacked hard in the final ten minutes, but De Costa proved a stumbling block to them. Gibbons and Joe Watt also broke up many rushes, while the local half line worked in co-operation with the defence in splendid fashion. Arnett replaced Hyslop at right half just before the final whistle, the latter being slightly hurt in a melee.

Dave Swan refereed and teams follow:

St. Andrews — Rabbit, Hyslop, Edmonds, McNeil, Paton, Alcock, Stephen, Munroe, Rothweiler, White, Kerr, Arnett, Cummings and Strong.

Victoria—De Costa, Joe Watt, Sweeney, Magee, Barnes, Youson, John Watt, Robinson, Wagland, Morgan, Musgrave and Price.

Avadhani, who does not know any other language except his mother tongue, Gujarati, has trained his memory to such perfection that he is able to repeat from memory 1,000 sentences after hearing them once. He reproduces them in the order in which they were spoken without making a mistake. He can also memorize poems in any foreign language, and can repeat them instantly in any order required. He can instantly repeat any series of disconnected words. His mnemonics with regard to the calendar are based on arithmetical calculations, but his instant answers are made possible only by a highly concentrated memory. MERALOMAS DEFEAT VACS TO ENTER FINAL

Kitsilano Squad Turns Back V.A.C. By 12 to 3 Score

Meralomas Win Right to Meet New Westminster for Provincial Big Four Championship by Decisive Victory—Winners Register Pair of Touchdowns

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9 (CP)—Meralomas, last year's provincial senior Canadian football champions, entered the British Columbia final today when they defeated Vancouver Athletic Club, 12-3, in a Big Four fixture.

Meralomas won the series two games out of three and will meet New Westminster next Saturday in the final. New Westminster eliminated Victoria.

Vacs ended the first quarter one point up as a result of a deadline kick by Stewart. But from then on it was Meralomas game. The highly-touted steam roller attack of the V.A.C. proved no match for the hard - tackling fast - moving orange and black clubbers. On only one occasion were Vacs dangerous, in the last quarter, when they finally worked the ball to Meralomas' eight-yard line, but the Kitsilano squad turned back three successive line plays and took possession when Vacs failed to make the necessary yardage.

ELLIS GOES OVER

Bob Ellis ripped off thirty-five yards halfway through the second frame to put Meralomas out in front. Niblo failed to convert, but added a deadline point a few minutes later.

In the last quarter, after Vacs failed to get past the eight-yard line, Meralomas carried the ball back into V.A.C. territory and Niblo booted another deadline point.

In a last desperate scoring attempt V.A.C. took to the air. A long pass to Chodat would have given Vacs a chance to score but the former Varsity back juggled the ball into the arms of Niblo, who dashed forty-five yards for Meralomas' second touchdown and the final scoring of the game.

The convert attempt went wide of the bars.

FINANCE - COMMERCE - MARKETS

Security Prices Swing Higher At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP).—Most financial markets looked fairly cheerful at the beginning of a new week today.

Stocks advanced quietly, but steadily, though their volume was small. Corn and hogs improved, bonds were firm and cotton ignored a Government crop estimate that was above expectations. Wheat fell back a bit.

Traders in stocks evidently took heart, at least mildly, from a number of happenings over and after the week-end which could be classified as favorable to the cause of business recovery.

American Telephone, Republic Steel, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, U.S. Steel, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Sears, Roebuck, Case, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Du Pont and Bethlehem Steel advanced fractions to more than a point.

American Can, up 2 1-4 net, and Allied Chemical, up 3, were stronger than the run of mill issues. National Distillers, Schenley, Socony-Vacuum, Nash and Park & Tilford were among the gainers, some of them being fairly active. Volume, however, totaled only 1,247,380 shares.

Both prime and secondary bonds moved up moderately today in trading that was characterized by considerable caution in view of conflicting opinions as to the Government's future fiscal policy.

Sentiment in the foreign section was mixed. French Government and municipal obligations were off a point or more.

MONTHLY INDEX OF CANADIAN BUSINESS CONDITIONS

ADJUSTED FOR LONG-TIME TREND AND SEASONAL VARIATIONS

COPYRIGHT 1930, McCONNELL & FERGUSSON LIMITED - RESEARCH DEPARTMENT

A further gain has been registered by the McConnell & Fergusson Monthly Index of Canadian Business Conditions. As at September 1 it registered 28.9 per cent below normal. Last month is was 29.4 per cent below normal. This time last year the Index registered 25.8 per cent below normal.

Freight loadings and electric energy output showed gains; the former 1.5 points and the latter 4.2 points. Construction contract awards lost ground, easing 1.6 points, and bank debits were unable to hold the large gain made last month, losing 2.2 points. It should be noted, however, that this factor is well above the low and that it is affected by the rising price level, even after statistical adjustment.

The following table shows the four component factors and the combined weighted index after the usual statistical refinements:

	Sept. 1, 1932	Aug. 1, 1933	Sept. 1, 1933
Carloadings of revenue freight	66.4	64.9	70.6

CANADA COUNTRY FOR YOUNG MEN

B. C. Nicholas Calls on Y.M.C.A. Delegates for Bold and Independent Opinions

Declaring that Canada should be a young men's country with young men in power, B. C. Nicholas, at a dinner in the Y.M.C.A., called on sixty delegates to the tenth annual provincial Hi-Y conference here to exercise bold and independent opinion of mind.

It is within the power of the high school boy today to exercise a moral influence over conditions of the world, the speaker asserted, and suggested that they take an active interest in the policies of the country as they become older. Youth today does not sufficiently dominate and inspire the policies of the country, Mr. Nicholas explained.

Within a year, the speaker said, he looks for a definite improvement in economics, and a greater improvement in a hundred other ways. Of necessity this country will adopt different standards of success, and no longer will success be judged in proportion to one's wealth.

MAINTAIN COURAGE

It is imperative to the welfare of Canada that youth maintain its courage and hope. Forbidding signs for the youth and entire country are only on the surface, and through it all there has developed a definite improvement of human character in face of the struggle. A lesson has been taught by this adversity and absorbed by necessity, Mr. Nicholas went on. There is a gradual improvement of economic conditions of the country, but the Governments are the last to reflect it. The young men must not become discouraged with their own condition, for it will soon evolve itself into an extremely better state, the speaker predicted.

The future of Canada's youth is entirely different from that of any other country. Resources of this country have to be developed by our own peoplee, and the youth must pioneer it.

Theodore Chapman, of Victoria, newly-elected provincial president, was in the chair.

Juno and Hera were the Roman and Greek names of the queen of heaven and wife of the Supreme divinity.

HEALTHOCRATS

Health Service of the Canadian Medical Association and the Life Insurance Companies in Canada

Technocracy is a new term, but the condition which it describes has existed since the invention of the first machine. Those who believe that our lives should be governed by physical and mental health might be called healthocrats. This is a new term, too, but not a new idea, for mankind has always striven to preserve health.

Today, in spite of economic conditions, we are better able to secure health than we have ever been before. Because more is known about the nature of disease and the fundamentals of health, we have greater opportunities to avoid disease and to enjoy good health than had the people of any other time.

We know that health is to be found by following certain simple rules of hygienic living. We do not mean that we must live according to rules, but rather that these rules should serve us as guides.

The first rule tells us that moderation in all things is good for us and that excesses do us harm. Regularity in living promotes the smoother running of the body.

Work and play are both desirable. Hard work does not kill, but when work interferes with the rest which is needed, then it becomes overwork and is actually harmful. The same may be said of play. Play is healthful, but play which goes on and takes up the hours which should be spent in sleep is anything but good for the health of the player.

Moderation and regularity should govern our eating. Regular meals, which include, in addition to meat and cereals, fresh vegetables, milk and fruits, provide the balanced diet which will keep the body strong and well.

To this should be added fresh air and sunshine. Take an hour's walk or other exercise out of doors every day is advice which is worth repeating. Keep the body clean; wash the hands before eating, and brush the teeth night and morning.

Healthocrats will visit their family doctor each year for a periodic health examination. Early detection of any abnormal condition means prompt correction and the prevention of more serious conditions. Advice on personal habits of living is needed.

There is no secret about health. It is a personal matter with each one. You can secure the largest measure of health if you are guided in your living by the simple rules which have been mentioned.

"KEEP HIS MEMORY GREEN"

We have an inquiry as to the origin of the familiar expression "keeping green" a memory for not forgetting someone, for keeping the memory alive.

The expression comes to us from Shakespeare, who at the beginning of scene two in the first act of his tragedy of Hamlet, used it as follows:

By the King:
"Though yet of Hamlet our dear brother's death
The memory be green, and that it us befitted
To bear our hearts in grief and our whole kingdom
To be contracted in one brow of woe,
Yet so far hath discretion fought with nature,
That we with wisest sorrow think on him,
Together with remembrance of ourselves."

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

A tourist, visiting a country fair, stopped by a merry-go-round. Presently he noticed a miserable-looking little man seated on one of the wooden horses. But what struck him as strange was that every time the machine stopped the little man made no attempt to get off.

At length curiosity overcame the tourist, and when next the man on the horse stopped opposite him he said:

"Pardon me, sir, but do you enjoy going round and round like this?"

The unhappy one grimaced.

"Not a bit," he replied.

"Then why do you do it?" asked the tourist.

"The man who owns this affair owes me ten bob and this is the only way I can get it out of him," came the reply.

He was trying to make an urgent telephone call when the lines became crossed. His voice interrupted a conversation on dress between two ladies, one of whom asked indignantly, "What line do you think you are on?"

"It sounds like the clothes line," replied the man, as he hung up the receiver.

BRANCH ENDORSES ACTION OF LEGION

North Saanich Veterans Send Telegram to Premier Regarding Pensions Appointment

KEATING, Oct. 9.—A well-attended meeting of the North Saanich Branch of the Canadian Legion was held in the Orange Hall, Saanichton, on Thursday, the president of the branch, Comrade Douglas, being in the chair.

The speaker of the evening was Col. Cy Peck, V.C., who in happy vein discussed the characteristics of the Canadian soldier, emphasizing his qualities of self-reliance, adaptability and initiative. In concluding, he remarked that the surest solution of the present situation was to capitalize those same qualities and use them to ends of peace as the genius of the Allied command had used them to forge an irresistible driving force in war.

Communications were read from the Provincial Command concerning the recent changes in the Pensions Commission, and it was decided unanimously to indorse the action of the command by a telegram to the Prime Minister of Canada. The telegram sent to the Hon. R. B. Bennett was as follows:

"The North Saanich Branch of the Canadian Legion indorses the telegram of the B.C. Provincial Command regarding the non-appointment of Col. C. Peck, V.C., to the new Pensions Commission, and believes that the action of your Government will cause grave unrest among ex-service men."

SHOW INTEREST IN LAND SCHEME

Qualicum Beach Farmers Will Take Advantage of Government's Reverted Land Policy

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 9.—A meeting of the Qualicum Beach Farmers' Institute was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thrall on Monday, President Mant in the chair. Much interest was shown in the Government reverted land scheme, whereby reverted lands are made available to those settlers desirous of obtaining them under very favorable conditions. This policy received the approval and commendation of the members, some of whom are taking advantage of it. Other items of the Government's agricultural policy were gone into and approved.

After the meeting the members present enjoyed the refreshments provided by their host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. W. Thrall. Mrs. G. Mant, G. H. Aldous, F. N. Jackson and W. H. Pomeroy were among those present and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

ROMANTIC CAREER COMES TO A CLOSE

Mrs. E. C. Dick Dies at Ladysmith After Long Life Spent in the Province

LADYSMITH, Oct. 9.—This district mourns the passing of Mrs. E. C. Dick, in her seventy-eighth year, after a life-time of colorful romance that spans the years of British Columbia's history. Active practically until the last few hours, she died shortly after midnight, Friday morning, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. Cullum, of Esplanade, where she has made her home for several years.

She was born on the Utah Trail in 1855, in a covered wagon, as her parents pursued the adventurous path westward to the Pacific. She arrived in Victoria when only a year old, and while still a child, moved to Nanaimo, when there were very few houses in the new coal-mining town.

She married Archibald Dick, who was one of the first mine inspectors officially appointed by the administration of the young colony.

Her husband died eighteen years ago. In her immediate family she is survived by five sons: James, of Cumberland, an official of the Canadian Collieries there; William, who is general manager of the Cadomin Coal Company in Alberta; Archibald, provincial boiler inspector for Alberta; Val, of Nanaimo, and John, of Extension; and three daughters: Mrs. J. Patmore, of Vancouver; Mrs. W. Cullum, of this city, and Miss Sarah Dick, of Vancouver.

TRIED SUICIDE IN CELL AT NANAIMO

NANAIMO, Oct. 9 (CP).—Police said Fong Quick Quong, Nanaimo Chinese, attempted suicide in the cells of the Nanaimo police station Saturday by hanging himself to the roof of the cell with a piece of quilt from his bed. He was discovered by Constable H. Daubeny, who cut him down. Dr. Earle Hall was summoned and revived the man with the aid of adrenalin and an oxygen tank. Quong will be taken tonight to Oakalla prison. He was arrested this morning on a charge of having drugs in his possession and had been remanded until Wednesday by Magistrate Potts.

THIRD VICTORIA TROOP

At the last meeting of the troop, several promotions were made, and service stars were awarded. Jack Relf was promoted to patrol leader of the Fox Patrol, with D. McIntosh as his second, and in the Lion Patrol, Donald Hughes was promoted to patrol leader and J. Ashmore to second. The following were awarded service stars: First year stars to Second D. McIntosh, B. Saunders, L. Flecher and Patrol Leader J. Relf; second year stars to Patrol Leader Williams, Patrol Leader F. Sherrock, Patrol Leader D. Kerr, Patrol Leader D. Hughes, Second G. Heater and Troop Leader M. Waller. Cub stars were awarded to Patrol Leader J. Relf and Patrol Leader R. Williams.

During the meeting a new Scout, James Harker, from the Thirty-first Vancouver Troop, was introduced and welcomed. He will take part in the troop's activities for a few months. Several games were played and enjoyed before the meeting was closed.

ST. MATTHIAS' TROOP

The St. Matthias' Troop held its regular meeting, under the direction of Major H. B. Hunter. After the opening, taken by P.L. T Anstey, patrol instruction was given. This was followed by some amusing games, after which the meeting was closed. The second-class badge was presented to Second Clive Thomas.

A practice of the troop's football team will be held on Wednesday afternoon, at 4:15.

FIRST CATHEDRAL TROOP

The regular meeting of the First Cathedral Troop was held on Friday evening, Duty Patrol Leader B. Ruffell opening the meeting, after which dues were collected and inspection held. Both sections of the troop attended. The first section had a half-hour of instruction and the second section a quarter of an hour instruction and a quarter of an hour at games. The whole troop then joined in a night game, after which the boys returned to headquarters. It was decided that the first section would concentrate on first class until more pass it.

TROOP ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the First Cathedral Boy Scout Troop was held at headquarters, Johnson Street, with a good turnout of parents. The group and troop reports showed a very successful year, with a substantial balance in the treasury. The troop had secured third place in competition held at the rally in June, and first place at the district camp at Burgoyne Bay in August, it was reported.

The following were elected officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. M. Coates; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. T. A. Simmons; executive committee, E. B. Prowd, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. H. Holder.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE COMMON COLD—COMMON TO THE WORLD

A few years ago very little was said, very little was thought, and very little was done about the "common cold." It was "only a cold." Today the whole world is interested in the common cold because practically everybody is bothered to some extent by this miserable ailment. The result is that in every country now research workers are investigating these symptoms which irritate nose, throat, chest, eyes, and often the digestive system.

Some idea of the amount of research work that is being done may be gathered from the fact that Drs. D. and R. Thomson, London, have reviewed over 2,000 studies made by physicians investigating the cause of the common cold. They have issued it in book form, 738 large pages, the price of which is about $15.

This book contains all that has been learned about the little organisms found in the nose, mouth, throat and lungs. It is believed that certain organisms prevent colds and others cause them.

The belief that there are other causes than these organisms is also strongly supported by evidence, that is injury, irritation, temperature, and sensitiveness to foods and other substances.

The book devotes chapters to fatigue, clothing, diet, deficiency of vitamins in predisposing us to colds, and concludes that a deficiency in Vitamin "A" plays some considerable part in lowering the body's resistance to colds.

Notwithstanding all that was discovered by these research men who wrote the 2,000 papers about the common cold, Drs. Thomson conclude that much work must still be done on the organisms, and on the nose, throat, mouth and chest during health, and during the progress of the cold itself.

The thought then is that if you are subject to colds, you investigate the cause yourself. Were you tired? Did you eat too much food? Were you exposed to a draft, or to a wet, cold wind, while tired? Do certain foods cause a "snuffling" of the nose? Are you eating enough of the foods containing Vitamin "A"—beans, peas, carrots (carotene), cress, spinach, liver, bananas, oranges, milk, eggs, fat beef, and butter?

All is not known as the cause of the common cold, but the above may help you to work out the cause in your own particular case.

The landlady placed before her lodger, at breakfast, a plate on which was a very small portion of honey.

He looked for a moment, then said: "Ah, madam, I see you keep a bee!"

LAUGHABLE FILM IS AT DOMINION

Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts Co-operate in "Her First Mate" —Fine Cast

Collectors of china are apt to swoon dead away when they see "Her First Mate," the Universal comedy which is now current at the Dominion Theatre, with Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts in the starring roles.

For in one scene the solemn-faced Summerville, filled with rage, goes into the kitchen of his home and smashes a complete set of lovely Delft blue china, piece by piece. He has just had a tempestuous argument with Miss Pitts, his wife in the picture, and to relieve his outraged feelings he covers the kitchen floor ankle-deep with broken crockery. It is only when he hits his equally outraged wife with the sole remaining cup that the clatter ceases—but his troubles have just commenced. She jams her hat on her head and barges out the front door, bound for some point which will be just as far as possible from their more or less peaceful love nest.

Summerville and Miss Pitts are assisted in "Her First Mate" by Una Merkel, Warren Hymer, Berton Churchill, Jocelyn Lee, George Marion, Henry Armetta and other fun makers. The picture was directed by William Wyler.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Capitol—Ronald Colman in "The Masquerader."

Columbia—"The Trail Drive," starring Ken Maynard.

Dominion—Slim Summerville in "Her First Mate."

Playhouse — "Headline Shooter," starring William Gargan.

CAPITOL THEATRE Guy Bates Post, the veteran actor who created the dual roles of "The Masquerader," the current feature at the Capitol Theatre, to which Ronald Colman now adds a new and brighter distinction, saw the picture at a preview in New York recently. In the many years of his association with the play and its silent picturization, it was the first time that he had seen it from "out front" with an audience. "I loved every minute of it," Mr. Post said of Mr. Colman's characterizations.

COLUMBIA THEATRE The most highly valued horse in the world is Ken Maynard's Palomino steed, Tarzan, who figures in the spectacular riding of Universal's "The Trail Drive," at the Columbia Theatre this week. Tarzan is insured for $10,000, but is valued by Maynard at many times that amount. George Arliss may also be seen in "Voltaire."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Interesting scenes of such famous personalities as Roosevelt, Hitler, Mussolini, Bernard Shaw and Mahatma Gandhi are incorporated in the thrilling action drama of "Headline Shooter," RKO-Radio Picture's colorful dramatization of the exciting career of a newsreel photographer, with William Gargan and Frances Dee featured. "Headline Shooter" is now showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

Francisco de Orellana was the discoverer of the course of the Amazon River.

Little Bedtime Stories

Jumping for Life

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS—

Hooty struck with his great curved claws, but he was too late.

What a person can do well he almost enjoys doing. Nimbleheels, own cousin to Danny Meadow Mouse, is the very best jumper on the Green Meadows, so it is quite natural that he should enjoy jumping. He jumped and he jumped and he jumped for Peter Rabbit's benefit. Peter stole out from the dear old Brier Patch and sat up in the moonlight that he might watch Nimbleheels better. Such jumping Peter had never seen before, and both he and Nimbleheels became so interested that they quite forgot that it is never safe to play on the Green Meadows unless a sharp watch is kept for danger.

Suddenly a shadow crept over Peter. There wasn't a sound. Keen as are Peter's long ears he heard nothing. Luckily for him he was sitting absolutely still at the time. Had he moved the least tiny bit the end of Peter would have been right then and there, for that shadow was Hooty the Owl.

Nimbleheels was so intent on his jumping that he didn't see that shadow at all until he shot up into the air above the tops of the grasses almost under Hooty. It is a question which was the most surprised, Nimbleheels or Hooty. Swiftly, but without a sound, Hooty turned in the air and Nimbleheels had no more than disappeared in the grass than Hooty was hovering right over it, his great eyes piercing down fiercely for a glimpse of the little Mouse he knew must be hiding among the grass stems right beneath him.

Peter sat quite still with horror, which was, perhaps, just as well for Peter. Could it be that the little friend with whom he had just become so well acquainted was going to be snatched away in the cruel claws of Hooty right before his very eyes? Could it be.

Suddenly Hooty screamed and at the sound out from the grass shot Nimbleheels in the longest jump Peter had yet seen him make. Hooty struck with his great curved claws, but he was too slow. As before, hardly had Nimbleheels landed in the grass that Hooty was hovering right over the very spot. Nimbleheels did not wait for him to scream, but was in the air in another long jump almost as soon as he reached the ground. This time he jumped to the side instead of in the direction he had jumped before. Probably it was this that saved his life. Hooty was not ready for him in that direction and so he missed him again.

Then began the most exciting game Peter had ever seen. At least it seemed like a game. It wasn't, of course, because both Nimbleheels and Hooty were very much in earnest, and the pretty little cousin of Danny Meadow Mouse to save his life, and Hooty to get a good dinner.

Such jumping! It made Peter Rabbit ashamed to think that he ever had bragged about his own jumping. This way, the other way, darted Nimbleheels over the tops of the grasses, and wheeling and turning on noiseless wings Hooty the Owl followed, always just a wee second too late, as he struck savagely with his great cruel-looking claws.

Peter wanted to shout to Nimbleheels and tell him to make for the dear Old Brier Patch, but even if he could have he wouldn't have dared, for he knew only too well that Hooty wouldn't think twice of a little jumping Mouse if he had a chance for a Rabbit dinner. So there was nothing for Peter to do but to sit there and hope and hope with all his might that Nimbleheels would escape, and that Hooty would get far enough away to give him, Peter, a chance to bolt for the safety of his home.

It seemed to Peter that Nimbleheels was making shorter jumps. Was he getting too tired to jump. If so, the end would come soon. Peter held his breath.
